Planned Improvements to Township's Roads Will Require a Major Infusion of Capital

Township roads have been neglected over the years in much the same way the sewer collection system was neglected. And like the sewers, there comes a point at which "drastic action" is needed.

This is the view of Township Engineer Robert V. Kiser, who wears a second hat as director of public works. Mr. Kiser has been working on a systematic plan of improvements to all Township roads and streets over the next five years. Like the sewer system, the improvements will require a major infusion of capital — ultimately coming from the taxpayer. Township Committee appropriated $550,000 for road repairs in the 1986 capital budget, the largest amount ever, and Mr. Kiser will be seeking close to $1 million for 1987.

There are 82 miles of Township-owned roads and streets which are the responsibility of the Public Works Department for maintenance and snow and leaf removal. Mr. Kiser says that when he took over in March, 1983, Herrontown Road had just been paved from Snowden Lane to Poor Farm Road, but no monies were allocated for road repair. That year $60,000 was scraped together for the repaving of Mt. Lucas Road from Herrontown Road to the Township border, the section of road in the worst condition at the time, in Mr. Kiser's view.

In 1984 Birch and Leigh Avenues were resurfaced and new curbing installed at a cost of more than $100,000. In 1985, with the boost of a contribution from the Elizabethtown Water Company, the roads that had been torn up to lay in a new water main — Mountain Avenue, and Terhune from Mt. Lucas to Harrison — were resurfaced, along with Witherspoon from Valley Road to the Borough line. The total cost was $400,000.

The $550,000 budgeted for 1986 is being spent in completing

DOT's Plans for Re-Routed 206 Will Hit Areas in Township Hard

A full-blown, grade-separated interchange at Mt. Lucas Road, and a relocation of Route 206 behind homes on Crestview, Balcort and Montadale Drives are shown in the Draft Environmental Impact Statement (DEIS) for proposed state highway 92 that is being circulated by the N.J. Department of Transportation (DOT).

The DOT will hold a public hearing Friday, December 8, from 5 to 10 p.m. at Princeton High School, on the impacts associated with the two major alignments and several segment schemes for the 13-mile highway that will connect Route 206 with the New Jersey Turnpike. The stated purpose of S-92 is to relieve traffic congestion in Princeton and Hightstown, as well as improve east-west traffic flow and take the truck traffic off local roads.

S-92 is proposed as a four-lane divided highway with a grass median, except between Route 1 and Route 27, where there will be three travel lanes in each direction and a grass median. A no-build alternative is theoretically still under consideration by the DOT, although the DEIS makes it clear that the DOT does not consider this a truly viable alternative to achieve the stated goals of relieving traffic congestion.

Construction costs will vary between $138.5 million and $167 million, depending upon which alignment is chosen. Right-of-way acquisition costs will add another $20 to $40 million, according to the DEIS.

Borough and Township officials will be briefed by the DOT at a private meeting on Wednesday, December 3. Township Committee was asked last week by several Township residents and the chairman of the Joint Environmental Commission to publicly support Scheme 6 alignment along the Princeton-Montgomery border. The most northern of four possible schemes along the border, Scheme 6 avoids the taking of land in the Autumn Hill Reservation, and it also avoids the Calton Homes Montgomery Woods townhouse development.

However, it bisects another townhouse development that has been approved by Montgomery but not built. This so-called Abrahamsen tract had been zoned for Mt. Laurel

Resident's Will Leaves 10 Acres of Forest Land To Princeton Borough

The Borough has been bequeathed a ten-acre forest fronting on Elm Road by one of Princeton's most distinguished citizens, who died in September at the age of 88.

The forest, which adjoins Elm Court and includes six acres of woodlands in the Borough and four in the Township, was willed to the Borough by the late Henry DeWolf Smyth, Joseph Henry Professor of Physics Emeritus, at Princeton University.

Dr. Smyth was a former member of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission and former U.S. Ambassador to the International Atomic Energy Agency. He was the author of Atomic Energy for Military Purposes, the official report on the development of the atomic bomb.

In his will, Prof. Smyth gave the Borough the first choice at accepting the ten acres of young forest. If the Borough had refused, it would then have been offered to the Township, and then to Princeton University.

Prof. Smyth's home, at 5 Lafayette Road West, was left to Princeton University. The six-bedroom, six-bathroom house, built in 1934, was pur-

3-Month-Old Baby Beaten; Mother Charged by Police

A Leigh Avenue mother has been charged by Township police with the assault Saturday of her 3-month-old son, who has been on a respirator near death in the intensive care unit of the Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital in New Brunswick since Sunday.

Police have charged Lisa Miner, 24, 7 Leigh Avenue, with aggravated assault and endangering the welfare of a child. She was arraigned in Township court and later taken to the Mercer County Detention Center to await a bail hearing.

Capt. Jack Petrone said Tuesday that further charges would be filed against Ms. Miner if the child, listed in critical condition, should die.

Township police were called at 4:41 Saturday afternoon by Ms. Miner,

New Traffic Signals Due In Princeton Borough

The New Jersey Department of Transportation (DOT) is scheduled to complete a number of traffic signalization improvements along Nassau Street and Bayard Lane by the end of November.

Dual lead green arrows in both directions on Nassau Street will be installed at the Nassau-Washington Road-Vandeventer Avenue intersection. A lead green arrow will replace the lead green interval on Washington Road to facilitate left hand turns onto Nassau Street. Walk/Don't Walk signals will also be included at this intersection.

A lead green arrow will be installed at the Nassau-Witherspoon Street intersection to facilitate traffic movement from eastbound Nassau Street traffic wishing to turn left into Witherspoon Street. Walk/Don't Walk signs will be included at this intersection.

Walk/Don't Walk signs will be installed at University Place and Nassau Street. The left lead arrow from Nassau Street westbound onto University Place will be continued.

Walk/Don't Walk signs will be installed at the Nassau-Stockton Street and Bayard Lane intersections. The lead green arrow from Stockton Street onto Bayard Lane will continue.

An additional pedestrian-controlled push button will be installed at the Hodge Road-Paul Robeson and Bayard Lane intersections, thus providing pedestrian access at all four corners of this intersection. An additional "No Turn on Red 7 A.M.-7 P.M." sign has been installed across Bayard Lane from the present sign.

Some further requests by the Borough were dealt with in a report from the DOT received this week at Borough Hall.

On the request for a center left turn lane along Route 206 between Hodge Road and Westcott Road, proposed pavement markings have been coded and the signs have been ordered. Completion is expected within a month.

Although requested at a meeting last year, revisions have not yet been made at the Nassau and Harrison Street signal, since the DOT was unable to get accurate traffic counts with the bridge out. However, due to the additional traffic using this intersection because of the closing of both the Harrison Street Bridge and the Washington Street Bridge in Rocky Hill, a revised plan and timing schedule will be done shortly.

The DOT has begun an investigation regarding the possibility of a traffic signal at Nassau and Olden Streets (something the Borough wants because of the new Davidson's supermarket and a proposed access road from Olden Street). A traffic count was requested and Borough Police Lt. Peter Hanley will submit accident reports. Chestnut Street is also being investigated for inclusion with this signal.

Mayor Sigmund asks that citizens who have further suggestions for traffic and safety improvements should write to the Borough Traffic and Transportation Committee, P.O. Box 390, Princeton, N.J. 08542.

who reported that her son, William Lane Phox, was starting to go into convulsions. Mercer County Prosecutor Paul T. Koenig, whose office has taken over the investigation, reported that when police and rescue workers arrived, the infant was breathing poorly.

Allegedly beaten by his mother, the victim suffered a fractured skull, chest injuries, severe trauma and brain damage. Assistant Prosecutor William J. Flanagan, who is heading the investigation, said there is evidence the child had been struck in the head with physical force and some kind of object.

He was first rushed to near-by Princeton Medical Center and transferred the next day to the New Brunswick facility and connected to a life-sustaining respirator.

The victim is the only child of Ms. Miner. She and the boy were alone when Township police arrived at the home. There were no witnesses to the alleged assault.

Capt. Petrone reported that there is a "domestic situation" involved which police did not want to get into. According to the investigation by Mr. Flanagan, however, Ms. Miner called police following an argument between herself and her boyfriend, the victim's father, whom authorities refused to identify.

There is no indication, Mr.

Flanagan reported, that the victim was injured during the argument, but he was apparently struck after the confrontation took place. The father, he said, was on his way out of the home with another friend when Ms. Miner struck him, triggering the argument.

The bail hearing for Ms. Miner has been set for this Wednesday before Superior Court Judge A. Jerome Moore.

chased by Dr. and Mrs. Smyth in 1937. The ten acres of woodland, adjacent to the house, were purchased for $12,000 in 1952. The land is currently assessed at $285,000.

The forest will be a public park, functioning as a wildlife preserve and as a teaching tool for children. According to Dr. Smyth's will, the Borough must keep the land in its natural state. Only necessary maintenance, such as the clearing of branches, may be done. The only change the Borough might be able to make, if it wished, would be the putting down of a wood chip path.

"This will be a wonderful experience, especially for our children," said Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund. "The forest is actually regenerating itself and they can see the forest life cycle here in Princeton." She added that this was the only place to see pine trees growing wild within the limits of Princeton Borough.

The land had generated $6,075 a year in property taxes, of which $1200 was paid in local taxes to the Borough. The loss in total property taxes paid to Princeton Township is a far lower $1602.

The forest is expected to be named Smyth Woods. An official dedication ceremony is planned for the spring.

Year-Long Effort by Princeton Resident Results in Release of Innocent Prisoner

A member of Christ Congregation who has been conducting his own brand of prison ministry for six years was savoring the fruits of his labors this week.

James C. McCloskey, a 1984 graduate of Princeton Theological Seminary who expects to be ordained at Christ Congregation soon, became the focus of national press and television attention when a man serving a life sentence on charges of sexual assault was exonerated and freed last Wednesday after serving 12 years in Trenton State Prison. The release of Nathaniel Walker came after a year-long effort by Mr. McCloskey which uncovered laboratory and other evidence that proved Walker could not have committed the crimes for which he was convicted.

The Nathaniel Walker case is the fourth success for Centurion Ministries, which Mr. McCloskey founded in 1983 "to vindicate and free from prison through the judicial process those who are completely innocent of the crime for which they have been wrongly convicted and imprisoned."

Mr. McCloskey enrolled in Princeton Seminary in 1979 at age 37, having served in Vietnam, earned a master's degree in business administration and experienced the bankruptcy of a business he started in Japan. Returning to his native Pennsylvania, he recouped his losses, first in a job on Wall Street and later with a Philadelphia consulting firm.

Influenced in part by the preaching of the pastor of the Paoli Presbyterian Church and by his own reading of the Gospels, he made the decision to "give up the work of the world and do the work of Christ." In his second year at Princeton Seminary, he elected chaplaincy work at Trenton more inmates "buried" unjustly in prison.

"They are penniless, powerless, voiceless and hopeless," he told Blawenburg resident Nathaniel Hartshorne, who wrote a profile of Jim McCloskey's unique ministry in the Princeton Theological Seminary Alumni/nae News last summer. Once Mr. McCloskey decides to take on a case, he "commits to that person's freedom," sticking to it no matter how long it takes or how expensive it becomes.

In addition to the investigation involved, Mr. McCloskey also serves as a minister and advocate for the inmate, sustaining him until his release and helping him adjust to society once he is free.

Prison for a required field education project.

There his attention was drawn to the inmate who would become his first case — a man who was serving a life sentence for the murder of a Newark car dealer he insisted he did not commit. After studying the transcripts in his trial and questioning the inmate closely, Mr. McCloskey took a leave of absence from Princeton to work on the case. He tracked down the state's chief witness and was able to demonstrate that this witness had lied and that the prosecution had withheld information that would have damaged the witness's credibility. The inmate was freed after nine years in jail.

Centurion Ministries receives numerous requests, usually forwarded by inmates at Rahway or Trenton State Prisons whom Mr. McCloskey has come to know and whose judgment he trusts. His method is to obtain all the documents that exist on a particular case, to read them carefully over a period of several months and to visit the inmate in person and over the phone. He also asks the inmate to write his autobiography, and says some have written 30-60 page manuscripts for him about their lives.

He works out of the single room in which he lives rent-free in a Library Place home. He hopes that the publicity generated by the Nathaniel Walker case will also generate funding for Centurion Ministries. He is currently investigating two more cases which he hopes will have similar outcomes, and he knows that there are many

Scofflaws May Lose Licenses

Beginning this week, the Division of Motor Vehicles (DMV) will suspend the driving privileges of 50,000 New Jersey motorists who have failed to pay parking or traffic tickets. The motorists involved have failed to appear in court or did not respond to two notices warning them they might lose their driving privileges.

"The suspensions will be going on the motorists' violation records over the next two weeks," said DMV Director Glenn Paulsen, "so any motorist who has not satisfied an outstanding ticket should do so immediately and report the information to Motor Vehicles."

No Ball to "Dangerous"

The state Assembly has passed a measure that would permit judges to deny bail to defendants considered to be dangerous. It would allow judges to order the pretrial detention of defendants upon motion by the prosecution and to restrict the movement of other defendants charged with less serious crimes.

The bill is expected to face strong opposition in the Democratic-controlled Senate. It passed by a vote of 51-18 in the Assembly, but only six Democrats supported it.

Tax Reductions for Some

A bill that would reduce the federal income tax paid by state and local government employees has been passed by the state Assembly. More than 365,000 such employees would save nearly $55 million in taxes because the portion of their salary contributed to their pension fund would not be considered income. They would pay taxes only after they began collecting their pension.

A typical government employee earning $25,000 a year, and paying $1,000 into a pension fund, would be considered to have an income of $24,000, thus saving an estimated $300 in federal taxes.

False Information on Benefit Cut

A letter sent to about 10,000 state residents informing them that their Supplementary Security Income payments would be terminated contained erroneous information. The state Medicaid office, which sent the letters, has received thousands of calls on its toll-free number due to the mix-up.

Charlene Brown, spokeswoman for the N.J. Department of Human Services, said she had no information on the erroneous letters.

Seminary Asks Borough To Exempt Three Houses

Princeton Theological Seminary has requested that the Borough grant tax-exempt status to three of its houses that are currently on the tax rolls.

The houses, at 104 Mercer Street, 2 Library Place, and 92 Stockton Street, are occupied by administrative and faculty personnel, according to Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund.

She said that Borough Council had met on the request last week and refused to grant it. She added that the Borough thinks it's wrong for the Seminary to foist its obligation to house personnel on the taxpayer. "We don't agree these houses are part of the central mission of the Seminary," said the mayor.

Princeton Borough is currently appealing a state Tax Court ruling this summer that granted tax exemption to two Mercer Street houses owned by the Seminary.

The five houses under dispute are assessed at a total of one million dollars. They paid taxes of $28,000 this past year, 20 percent of which were local municipal taxes. The rest went toward the support of the county and the schools.

Mayor Sigmund expressed concern at a potential loss of $33 million in taxable property if the courts continue to allow off-campus housing for faculty members to be considered tax exempt. Currently, Princeton University pays taxes on property assessed at $31 million and the Seminary pays similar taxes on $2 million worth of property.

Some 41 percent of Borough properties pay no taxes, including $187 million owned by Princeton University and $21 million owned by the Seminary.

Mayor Sigmund and Councilman Marvin Reed are expected to appear this Wednesday, November 12, before Governor Kean's Tax Commission in Trenton. They plan to request compensation from the state tax base to those municipalities that are overloaded with tax-exempt properties — Princeton Borough included.

Curtiling Skateboards Is Asked by Committee

The Princeton Borough Traffic and Transportation Committee has requested Borough Council to prohibit skateboards from those Borough Streets that now prohibit bicycle riding.
At its October 15 meeting, the Committee agreed with the Commission on Aging and with the police that skateboards on crowded sidewalks create a serious hazard and should be subject to the same restrictions as bicycles.

The sidewalks on which bicycle riding are prohibited include, in addition to the north side of Nassau Street between Bank and Moore Streets, both sides of each street entering Nassau Street from the north in that area except for Vandeventer Avenue, where only the west side is subject to the ban; both sides of the west, south and east sides of Palmer Square; and the south sides of Hulfish and Spring Streets. The committee would like the east side of Vandeventer added to the list.

Borough Attorney Walter Bliss, at last week's Council meeting, agreed to prepare an ordinance to ban the skateboards from these sidewalks. It is expected to be discussed at the November 12 meeting of Borough Council.

PU Worker Improves After a 27-Foot Fall

A 48-year-old Princeton University employee was described Tuesday as stable and in fair condition by a Princeton Medical Center spokesman, following a 27-foot fall Friday from the third floor of the Jadwin Physics Building on Washington Road.

Arthur Atoeff of 41 Spring Street was admitted in serious condition to the hospital, where he underwent surgery for an open skull fracture.

According to police, who were called at 9:04 in the morning, workers were on a third-floor terrace, weeding a series of planters filled with evergreens. Mr. Atoeff, police said, was standing in a planter box, shoveling out dirt, when he lost his balance, fell 27 feet and landed on the rock floor of the interior atrium. Co-workers told police that Mr. Atoeff had slipped and almost fallen earlier that morning.

Police said there were no railings around the planters.

A university spokesman described Mr. Atoeff as a temporary employee. Capt. Jack Petrone said that the victim has been a long-time worker for the Princeton Medical Center ground maintenance crew.

Trenton Pair Is Charged With Jewelry Possession

Charles Ray Runyon, 31, and Mary Jo Hendricks, 32, both of the same Trenton address, have been charged by Township police here with possession of stolen property.

The two were arrested by Delaware Township police who recovered a large amount of stolen jewelry, according to Township Capt. Jack Petrone. Because of a similar method of operation involving jewelry thefts in the Township, police invited victims here to accompany them to Trenton and view the recovered property.

Two residents of Drake's Corner Road, Capt. Petrone reported, were able to identify items as those stolen from their homes. One victim had lost watches valued at $285, the other jewelry worth $125. Other victims from this area were unable to make any positive identification, Capt. Petrone said.

A Swindler Is Sought By Township Police

Township police are searching for a man who, they said, swindled a State Road firm of $1,224.50 in a theft by deception.

According to police, D-J Business Service, 842 State Road, the victim, had rented office space and provided secretarial service to Salvatore J. Mondello. After starting a business, Mr. Mondello, police said, abruptly closed the operation and left the area, leaving behind rental, secretarial and telephone bills.

Capt. Jack Petrone commented that the police investigation "has led from one place to another." He added police have no address for Mondello and do not know if he is using a fictitious name.

Drug Charges Follow A Motor Vehicle Stop

Two Bensalem, Pa. residents have been charged with a number of drug offenses, after their car was stopped at 1:30 Monday morning on Nassau Street near Cedar Lane.

After Ptl. Anthony Federico and Ptl. David Dudeck stopped the car for going through a red light, further investigation by the officers uncovered the following in the car: eight plastic baggies containing marijuana, three glassine envelopes believed to contain methamphetamines (speed) and another baggie filled with a variety of prescription pills.

Police charged a passenger, Michael Perfidio, 20, with possession of marijuana, possession of speed, possession of drugs with intent to distribute and possession of prescription drugs not in proper containers. He was later released after posting $5,000 bail set by Judge Russell W. Annich Jr.

The driver, James McMullen, 19, was charged with possession of less than 25 grams of marijuana and issued summonses for failing to keep right and running a red light.

Both are scheduled to appear in Borough court December 17. Two other occupants in the car were released without charges.

Wallets, More Wallets In Weekly Theft Report

Wallets continued to be an item of choice for thieves in Princeton.

A university student lost $15 and $18 in personal items when her wallet was taken last week from an unlocked locker in Green Hall, the old Nassau Street School building at 185 Nassau Street.

Another university coed left her wallet in her bookbag which she had left in an Ivy Club coat room. The thief who stole her wallet collected $10 and personal items valued at $43.

An employee of the university lost $40 when a thief stole her wallet from her purse which she had left unattended in Dickinson Hall.

More careless was the student who decided to go swimming early Sunday morning in the fountain pool in the Woodrow Wilson building plaza. He placed his trousers on the steps of the plaza; when he returned a half-hour later at 1:30 his ton leather wallet valued at $35 was missing. Inside was $5 in cash.

A university employee listed the theft Friday night of his three-quarter length beige coat and red cashmere sweater from a coat rack on the B Floor level of Firestone Library. He valued the articles at $150 each.

Another coat, a student's $150 tweed wool jacket, was stolen last week from a bathroom in Henry Hall where the victim had left it between 1 and 7 a.m.

Still on campus, a student was in a Dillon Gym locker room last week when he noticed someone carrying a red and brown nylon gym bag that looked like his. Scurrying to his locker to make sure, he discovered his gym bag was indeed missing, but by the time he tried to catch up to the suspect, the suspect was gone. He lost clothing, a cassette radio, eyeglasses, $2 in cash and other items. Total loss: $372.

Friday afternoon, a Princeton Day School student left her

Missing Woman's Dog Returns Home

The dog of the 87-year-old Township resident, Brigitta Kovacs, who has been missing from her Linden Lane home since October 22, has returned home. Ms. Kovacs, however, the object of a search that has included police helicopters, has still not been found.

Lt. Samuel Bianco reported this week that Ms. Kovacs' rust-colored retriever, Kali, whom she was walking or searching for when she was last seen, returned home alone on Thursday, 14 days after he had disappeared along with Ms. Kovacs. Lt. Bianco said the dog was dragging his leash, and he described him as looking tired and skinny. His back quarters had been skinned up, Lt. Bianco said, as if he had been caught on something and had pulled himself loose.

He urged anyone who may have seen a dog resembling Kali, or a dog dragging a leash, to call Township police at 921-2100.

"She may be further from Princeton than we thought she would be," commented Lt. Bianco of Ms. Kovacs, who is Hungarian and speaks no English.

LeSportsac bag in a doorway entrance of the First Presbyterian Church on Nassau Street while she went walking around town. Returning two hours later, she discovered the bag, containing a sweater, sweatshirt, pants and other personal items was gone.

I'll Take These. Between three to five Burberry, double-breasted raincoats were shoplifted last week from The English Shop on Nassau Street.

Police report a white male, about 30, entered the store at 3:20, browsed for a while, then grabbed the raincoats and ran out of the store. A female clerk pursued the suspect down John Street but he managed to escape. The suspect is further described as about 5-7 with dark hair, wearing blue jeans and a denim jacket.

Two parked cars were broken into last week. A Newtown, Pa. resident here on business all day, parked and locked his

Dog (and Owner) Win 3rd Place In National Look-Alike Contest

Robert Clancy of Princeton, chairman of the board of Clancy Paul, and Millicent, his baset hound, won third place in the Lucky Dog Look-Alike Contest.

When asked if he and Millicent really look alike, Mr. Clancy responded, "Yes — and she's a very upset about that. She's very sensitive."

The photogenic pair were entered in the national contest by a sister of Glen Paul, Mr. Clancy's partner, who was struck by the resemblance between the two.

As one of nine national finalists, Mr. Clancy and Millicent were brought to the finals in New York City by limousine. "She was rather laid back about everything," he said. "She slept through most of the proceedings."

After the judging, which was done by three representatives of dog fancier magazines, the two were interviewed and photographed by the national and international press. However, they refused to pose for a photo by the National Enquirer. "We pretended we had to go back," said Mr. Clancy.

In retrospect, Mr. Clancy thinks he blew it for Millicent. "After all the dogs walked around the ring, Millicent was asked to do a trick. I told them that Millicent was a lady. 'This isn't the Mayflower Madam; she doesn't do tricks'."

Millicent's prize was a year's supply of dog food. "She likes it," said her proud owner. "She'll eat anything."

car in a lot off Hulfish Street. Returning at 10 in the evening, he found his Toyota still locked, but missing from the inside were his Nikon camera, a number of lenses and assorted equipment. His trip to Princeton cost him an extra $1,315.

During the two hours a California resident had parked his rented car on Dickinson Street last week, someone broke into the car's trunk without force and stole a travel bag. Inside were assorted clothing and a sleeping bag worth $800.

A Trenton resident who parked her 1986 sedan on University Place near College Road, lost her $140 radar detector when a thief shattered her right front window to gain access.

Four days later, another Trenton resident lost his entire car when he parked his 1986 Buick in the same location: University Place near College Road. Police report someone entered the locked car, which is valued at approximately $10,000, and drove off sometime between 8:30 and 10:30 Sunday evening. Police have no suspects.

Two in the Township. Two cars were broken into in the Township last week while both were parked at the same time in the Rusty Scupper lot.

Taken from a BMW of a Skillman resident — the driver's side window was smashed — were a stereo and air conditioning console worth a combined $1,000. Stolen from a 1985 Volvo owned by a South Amboy resident was an $800 radio. Cost to replace the passenger-side window that was smashed to enter the car was placed at $200.

For the second time in two weeks there was another theft from a home under construction in the Brooks Bend site off Pretty Brook Road. Taken during a three-day period were three air-conditioning units valued at a combined $2,700. Police identified the victim as Robert Houck Heating and Air Conditioning of Trenton.

A $1,000 golf cart used to travel the grounds of the Tenacre Foundation on The Great Road was stolen early this month, but Township police report it was recovered a week later on the Princeton Day School grounds.

A Borough resident left her pocketbook unattended last week while shopping in the Acme Store in the Princeton Shopping Center.

Not surprisingly, someone reached in and stole her wallet. The victim lost $30 and her $20 wallet.

Four Cars Are Marked While Parked in Lot

Four cars were marked with a black felt-tip marker while they were parked Friday afternoon between 3:30 and 4 in a Quarry Street lot behind the Princeton Nursing Home.

Township police report a rear side window of a 1983 Honda was shattered while it was parked last week on Alexander Street near Faculty Road.

A small stone found in the rear seat of the car left a one-inch hole which caused the window to shatter. A replacement cost of $160 was listed by Dodds Lane owner.

Christmas House Tour Showcases Six Homes

The Christmas In Princeton House Tour, for the benefit of the North Princeton Developmental Center, will open up six different homes to the public. They include a French provincial residence constructed of masonry and built in 1928 as a parents' wedding gift to their daughter; a small, in-town country home filled with English and American family memories; a massive stone and stucco house, started in 1850 as a modest gray clapboard New Jersey farmhouse, expanded in the 1920s and totally refurbished in 1986; a 1985 custom-built home designed by award-winning New York architect Robert Stern, reminiscent of summer cottages of the 1880s; and a natural cedar California contemporary filled with a mixture of eclectic pieces of Art Deco and uniquely designed marble furniture. The homes are located throughout the Princeton community and the Bedens Brook area.

The tour will be held on Friday, December 5, from 10 until 4. A lane of shops will be open from 10 until 7 in the new All-Purpose Building on the Center's grounds in Skillman. Complimentary tea will be served from 4 to 6 p.m. and entertainment will be provided throughout the day. The shops will include Christmas decorations, stationery, wrap and gift items. Call Mrs. Randall C. Carleton at 896-2593 for tickets, which are $20. There is no entrance fee for the Christmas shops.

Arms Control Director Slated to Speak Thursday

Kenneth L. Adelman, director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, will speak on "The Principles of Arms Control" Thursday at 4:30 in Dods Auditorium at the Woodrow Wilson School, Princeton University. The lecture was originally scheduled for October 6 and postponed when Mr. Adelman was summoned to the White House to prepare for the Reagan-Gorbachev meeting in Reykjavik.

President Reagan nominated Mr. Adelman to his current post in January 1983. As director, he is the president's prin-

Stay Off Township Streets This Winter Until Snow Plowing Has Been Finished

Motorists entering Princeton Township will find it impossible not to notice one of the snow-removal signs above. The Township has installed 53 of them in preparation for implementation of a new ordinance passed by Committee last December. As the sign says, the ordinance temporarily prohibits parking on Township roads until snow plowing and snow removal are completed. The ban will remain in effect until the streets have been plowed sufficiently that parking will not interfere with the normal flow of traffic.

But, as Capt. Jack Petrone noted this week, the signs' unequivocal message has some here apprehensive. "What if I'm just visiting somebody's home?" is just one of many envisioned scenarios.

The ordinance is really designed for all night parkers and drivers who abandon their cars, commented Capt. Petrone, in trying to allay any fears. When plowing crews are out, if cars are left in the street, the streets never get plowed properly and the ruts and ice stay there, he explained. "This ordinance gives police the right to remove a car."

As with any new ordinance, Capt. Petrone continued, he predicted police would be lenient during the first snowfall, as far as enforcement goes. Said he, "We'll probably just hand out warnings the first time."

Police, Firemen Lauded By Housing Authority

To the Editor of Town Topics: I wish to express the deep appreciation of the Commissioners and staff of the Princeton Housing Authority to the Police, the Volunteer Fire Department and the Princeton Rescue Squad, for the exemplary way in which they carried out their duties during the tragic fire which occurred at Spruce Circle on October 28.

Not only did they respond with efficiency and dispatch, but they saw to the safety and well-being of our elderly residents with compassion and sensitivity.

I regret that I was out of town at the time, but I have been told by many of our residents of the kind and courteous assistance which they received.

We join the community in mourning the death of Mr. Rex Gorleigh, a resident of Spruce Circle for the past three years. He will be greatly missed.

Thank You to Princeton From the Arts Council

To the Editor of Town Topics: From the Arts Council of Princeton a huge thank you to one terrific town. We think this year's Halloween Parade was the best ever!

Special thanks to Mrs. Demarest's fourth graders at Community Park School for making such splendid banners; our Town Crier, Rip Pellaton, whose hardy voice directed our every move; the Princeton University Band for its marching music and lively entertainment on the Nassau Green; the ever-present students of InterAct who kept a watchful eye on all creatures large and small;

Also, the friendly police officers for securing our route; the Princeton Fire Department for providing a fitting end to our procession with its shiny fire engine; McCarter theatre for donating the Goblin Call prizes; Janet Haring who created our wacky witch; and Petie Duncan and Jill Ryder of the Nassau Inn for letting us feast on tasty treats and cider before the commanding presence of that giant jack-o-lantern.

What a great town party!

TEDDY BEARS DRESSED AND READY TO GO: These bears may be found at the Craftwomen's Marketplace, a juried show for more than 80 crafters, which will be held Saturday, November 22, from 10 to 5 at the YM-YWCA, Paul Robeson Place. Helping organize the event, which is a benefit for the YWCA's Pearl Bates Scholarship Fund, are from left, Nancy Henckel, Susan Breen, Helen Sullivan, Palmer Uhl, JoAnn Crandall, Pat Schott, and in the rear, right, Penny Thomas.

reading on Monday at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of the Mackay Campus Center.

The program will include "My Apples," by Robert Granat, a Cuban-born writer currently living in New Mexico and Madison Bell's "The Naked Lady."

As a professor of speech at the Seminary, Mr. Brower has developed courses in the oral interpretation of literature and has directed dramatic productions on campus. A professional actor before joining the Seminary's staff, he is identified with his presentation of Robert Frost's poetry in "A Friendly Visit with Robert Frost," which has been televised.

The short story reading is open to the public free of charge.

Annual Crafts Marketplace Scheduled at YWCA
The 13th annual Craft-

women's Marketplace will return to the YWCA on Paul Robeson Place on Saturday, November 22, from 10 to 5.

Handicapped persons will be admitted at 9:30 a.m. The YWCA's Pearl Bates Scholarship Fund and the people it serves are the beneficiaries of the craft event.

More than 80 artisans, both men and women, from five states, have been selected from among 120 applicants for the quality of their workmanship, to present crafts, art and collectibles.

Among the crafters are several New Jersey and Pennsylvania Designer Craftsmen, and artisans whose handmade products are marketed in boutiques across the country and exhibited in museums and galleries as well as private collections around the world.

Among the items for sale, from stocking stuffers to expensive works of art, will be a selection of baskets from all kinds of natural and processed materials, including Nantucket-type baskets; multi-media sculpture; cut, pierced and painted lampshades; papier-mache, clay and silver jewelry, folk art and traditional woven rugs, tapestries; hand-loomed and hand-knit scarves, sweaters, hats and mittens; carved birds and decoys; woodcrafts, including jigsaw puzzles; toys and dolls;

Also, fresh-baked specialty breads, honey; silk-screened cards; fine stoneware and porcelain; all kinds of quilted, hand-painted, smocked and appliqued wearables for women and children; clay tiles; hand-made leather goods; dried flowers, wheat weaving, canvas totes, and luggage, small gardens and individual plants in unusual clay pots.

The YWCA's own Mini-Marketplace will offer "Princeton Products" — from town bakers, knitters and artists. The YW Teddy Bears wearing hand-knit turtleneck sweaters and ski hats, will be available, along with bears. Special orders will be accepted for personalized school or college letter sweaters, or for bears outfitted in sweaters and hats in favorite color schemes, in time for Christmas giving.

In the Holiday Shop, there will be a variety of Christmas items. Several different Christmas wreaths and boxwood trees for centerpieces will be on display. Orders will be taken with delivery to home or business, or for pick-up at the YWCA (if purchaser lives outside delivery area) during the first week of December.

Also featured will be narcissus bulbs, some planted in interesting containers, holiday wrapping paper, and a variety of handmade Christmas ornaments, made from natural materials.

A varied lunch menu of homemade soups, breads, chili, and sandwiches will be available as well as hot dogs and homemade baked goods made by members of the YWCA's Newcomers Club.

Proceeds of the event, including the $3 admission charge (children under six will be admitted free), will be donated to the Pearl Bates Scholarship Fund. This fund provides scholarships to women and children whose economic condition would otherwise prevent them from participating in YWCA programs.

Service Awards Planned For Township Employees

The Township will institute a program of service awards for employees and volunteers this fall.

Christine Smeltzer, assistant township administrator, outlined the program to Township Committee last week. The purpose of the program is to give recognition to employees and volunteers as they complete five-year milestones of service to the municipality and to establish the Township "as an employer people would want to work for," Ms. Smeltzer said.

All employees will be given an employee pin with the Township logo, the Mercer Oak drawn by an assistant in the Engineering Department two years ago. The logo is on all Township vehicles and stationery.

The service awards will be in the form of gifts, such as pen and pencil sets and revere bowls. The first round will be presented at a party in the Valley Road building in mid-December.

Transportation Committee. Committee agreed to check with Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund and Borough Council about its interest in reviving a joint Transportation Advisory Committee. The committee's primary focus would be on problems caused by the discontinuance of the loop bus and transportation for the elderly. Township Committeeman Tom Poole suggested that its focus not be too broad — not include safety, for instance — and that the reasons for the failure of the previous committee be looked at before reinstating it.

In other business, Committee agreed to organizational changes involving the Housing Board and the Housing Fund set up under the affordable housing ordinance to develop and administer the Township's Mt. Laurel housing. Committee agreed that the Housing Board will become the primary agency to administer the program.

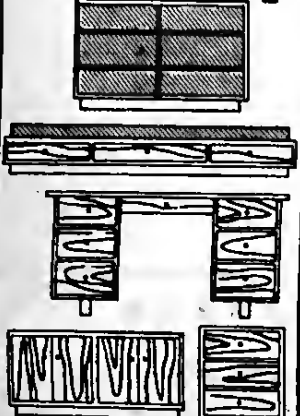

The Fund is expected to play a lesser role as the entrepreneurial non-profit organization that acquires sites for housing, now that the Princeton Community Housing development of the Peterson tract is underway and the Township has been assigned a lower fair share number than was originally anticipated.

The four citizen members who were appointed to the Housing Fund by former Mayor Winthrop S. Pike are expected to be named to the Housing Board by Mayor Gail Firestone. A member of Township Committee will also serve on the Housing Board, which will administer rules governing such things as income eligibility, size of units, preference for residents, mix of rental units and units for sale as set forth in the ordinance.

Up to now, the entire Township Committee has also served as the Housing Board. But it has been the members of the Housing Fund, namely Thomas S. Fulmer, Zvi Elref, Edgar Matson and John Kelsey, along with Mayor Firestone and Mr. Poole, who have met regularly to immerse themselves in the technicalities of what it means to administer a housing program.

United Way Campaign Is At One Third of Goal

The United Way-Red Cross campaign of the Greater Princeton Area has raised $678,000 of its $2.1 million goal, according to campaign chairman James V. Gramlich.

With 32% of the goal raised, United Way volunteers still need to raise $1,423,000 in order to claim victory.

"There is a long way to go yet in our drive, but we feel confident that enough corporations, organizations, employees, residents and others will feel the need to help out," said Mr. Gramlich, who is director of American Cyanamid Company-Agricultural Research Division.

The campaign received a strong start because American Cyanamid Agricultural Research Division, FMC Corporation, NL Chemicals and Squibb Corporation agreed to kick off their campaigns before the general drive began. These corporations and their employees contributed $313,000, or about 15%, of the total.

The United Way provides financial support for 27 community agencies that serve the people who live or work in Cranbury, East Windsor, Griggstown, Hightstown, Kingston, Montgomery, Plainsboro, Princeton, Rocky Hill, West Windsor, and the neighboring areas of Hopewell, Lawrence and South Brunswick Townships.

J&J Executive to Speak; Will Give Kilgore Lecture

James E. Burke, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Johnson & Johnson Company, will give the 1986 Bernard Kilgore Memorial Lecture Friday, November 21, at 10:30 at the Woodrow Wilson School on the Princeton University campus.

The business lecture is sponsored annually by the Chamber of Commerce and is funded by the Gillespie Organization. Mr. Burke was selected following a Gallup poll of 110 magazine and newspaper business editors. Previous lecturers have included J. Peter Grace, chairman of the Grace Company, and Charles Brown, chairman of AT&T.

Mr. Burke joined Johnson & Johnson as a product director in 1953 after three years as a brand manager with Procter & Gamble. He received an MBA from Harvard Business School in 1949 and commanded a landing craft tank in the Pacific during World War II. He progressed through a series of increasingly responsible management assignments at J&J and in 1965 was named president of Johnson & Johnson Products Inc.

That year he was also elected a director and member of the executive committee. In 1971 he became vice chairman of the executive committee and in 1976 chairman and chief executive officer.

entitled "AIDS - Is Death Inevitable?" Tuesday at 8 at the Unitarian Church. The talk is sponsored by the Holistic Health Association of the Princeton Area.

Dr. Van Beveren will explore the making and breaking of the immune system, and challenges to it from poor hygiene, inoculations and "germ warfare." AIDS will be discussed in relation to its history, the genetic alteration of the virus and the biologic gaps opened for continued survival of the virus.

A program for the enhancement of the immune system will be emphasized. Several anecdotal case histories will be shared of those who have com-tracted AIDS and are surviving through methods not used by conventional medicine.

Pirandello Correspondence Donated to University

Princeton University has received 560 handwritten pieces of correspondence from the Italian playwright, novelist and short-story writer Luigi Pirandello to the stage and screen actress Marta Abba, who was the inspiration for a number of his most memorable plays.

The letters, donated by Mme. Abba, were written from 1925 to a few days before the death of Pirandello on December 10, 1936, and comprise the complete body of his correspondence to her. It was Marta Abba who announced the news of Pirandello's death to the American public from the stage of the Plymouth Theater on Broadway.

The Pirandello letters illustrate the unique relationship between the maestro and the young actress, who was born in 1900 in Milan. At age 15, Marta Abba entered an acting school located close to La Scala Theater, where she revealed an exceptional talent. After she graduated, her success in the role of Nina in Chekhov's The Seagull in Milan brought her to the attention of Pirandello, who hired her for his "Teatro d'Arte" in Rome.

Her debut at the Odescalchi Theater in Rome in the play Nostra Dora, by Massimo Bontempelli, was received with rave reviews by the Roman critics and established her as a leading actress in Italy.

Her collaboration with Pirandello lasted until his death and she toured in his plays in London, Paris, Switzerland, Hungary, Uruguay, Brazil and Argentina. In 1928 with the help of her father, Mme. Abba formed her own acting company which gave a number of new Italian playwrights their first success. Mme. Abba performed in France in French, conquering the Parisian press with a great success in Pirandello's play L'uomo, la bestia e la virtù. She also performed in English, both in London and in New York. During the war, she brought to several American universities the works of Pirandello, always in English. She also was the founder of the Pirandello Society in New York.

Schedule Is Announced For the CJ Hockey Club

The Princeton-based Central Jersey Hockey Club has announced its home schedule for the 1986-87 season.

The team, which holds all its practices and home games at Princeton University's Baker Rink, will enter its third year of competition in the Commuters' Ice Hockey League. Under the league's format, Central Jersey competes in the six-team southern division, along with the Princeton Hockey Club "B" Team, the Essex Hunt Club, Beacon Hill Hockey Club, the Wissahickon Skating Club and the Valley Forge Hockey Club.

Each team plays the other five teams twice, and then the winner advances into the championship game against the winner of the seven-team northern division.

Two years ago, Central Jersey finished second in its division with a 4-3-3 record, but last year the club had a disappointing divisional record of 2-8, although it was 11-11 overall.

This year, however, the team will have a new look, as former Princeton Hockey Club "A" Team players John Cook, Steve Cook, Colie Donaldson, Eric Monberg, Arch Reid, and Larry Sanford will join the squad. The Cooks and Donaldson are forwards, Reid and Sanford defensemen, and Monberg is a goalie. Returning Central Jersey veterans are forwards Arthur Eisdorfer (the team's captain), Anthony Rosetty, Mark Mayer, Dan Kemp, Brian Erb, and Jack Stradling. Gib Johnson and Bob Smyth, also a former PHC player, are defensemen, and Mike Pollock will be in goal.

Central Jersey's home opener will be an exhibition game against the Princeton Hockey Club on Friday in Baker Rink at 8:15 p.m. Admission is free.

The remainder of Central Jersey's home schedule is as follows: December 6, 3:45, Monsey, N.Y. Hockey Club; December 20, 6:45, Beacon Hill Hockey Club; January 10, 5:15, Princeton Hockey Club; January 17, 6:45, Valley Forge Hockey Club; January 24, 6:45, Essex Hunt Club; January 31, 2:15, Wissahickon Skating Club; February 14, 2:15, Princeton Hockey Club; February 21, 2:15, Trenton State College; March 7, 9:15, Chester County Hockey Club; and March 14-15, Horton Cup Tournament at Princeton Day School and Baker Rink.

Robert Geddes, design principal in the architectural firm Geddes Brecher Qualls Cunningham, addressed the 40th national preservation conference sponsored by the National Trust for Historic Preservation in Kansas City.

Mr. Geddes described a new center city plan for Philadelphia which he and Robert Brown, also a principal of GBQC, have proposed in their capacity as urban design consultants to the Philadelphia City Planning Commission. Noting that this is actually the third plan for Philadelphia — the first being by William Penn in 1683, the second by Edmund Bacon in the 1960's — Mr. Geddes said that growth and preservation are its two themes.

"Every city has a history, a structure," Mr. Geddes said in his talk. "By preserving the structure, one can make sense out of incremental growth and overcome disjointed development." He told the conference:

"Historic preservationists should emphasize the structure of the city as a whole. So far they have given attention to individual buildings, streets and districts." The new city plan for center city Philadelphia is expected to guide its development into the next century.

MONTGOMERY GRAND OPENING

National State takes bold step into the future

21 • TOWN TOPICS, PRINCETON, N.J., WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1986

At last there is a bank that listens to what customers want and need! The National State Bank has taken a bold step by creating an entirely new banking environment designed to make banking easier for everyone and to deliver extraordinary personal service.

Cathy Lipton, manager of the new Montgomery office, stated, "We designed this exciting environment after research told us that people are looking for a better way to do their banking!"

The new office is one of the first banking offices of its kind in the country.

Something new Something different Something better

When you visit the new office, you'll notice something very different. Instead of standing in line at the usual teller counters, you'll sit in a comfortable chair to do your banking. Something else is very different—the quality of service you'll enjoy. Lipton stated that "Our customer service team handles a wider range of services than traditional tellers. You'll be able to get up-to-the-minute account information—and even learn which checks cleared since your last statement. The promise of caring service that other banks make is fulfilled at National State. It's full-service banking at its best."

Personal Financial Center and Priority Service

You don't have to be a millionaire to be treated like one at National State. If you have as little as $10,000 on deposit in any combination of accounts (including money market, savings, IRAs and CDs), or can transfer that amount from elsewhere, you qualify for private banking at the Personal Financial Center—away from the busy bank lobby. You can do your banking in a private office with your personal account manager.

With as little as $5,000 on deposit with us, you automatically qualify for priority service. Your personal account manager will do everything possible to make your banking smooth, efficient and enjoyable.

Very Civilized Banking

It all adds up to very civilized banking. A perfect blend of new ideas and technology with the best of the past—the kind of courtesy and outstanding service that has given National State its reputation for quality for 174 years.

You will save time when you're busy, and have all the time you need when you want to take the time. You can bank at your convenience in person at our office... or by phone from your office, your home or your car. Use MAC®/Plus® machines for 24-hour banking—at over 5,000 locations across the country.

Safe Deposit Boxes
Available in all sizes.

Residents receive personal invitations

Special invitations will be sent out to area residents inviting them to stop by to meet

New For Consumers

The fall, 1986, edition of the Consumer Information Catalog is your key to more than 200 government booklets filled with facts on everything from federal benefits to the benefits of good diet and exercise, from home repairs to repairing your family budget. And more than half of the publications are either free or cost only 50 cents.

The catalog is published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration. For a free copy, send your name and address to Consumer Information Catalog, Pueblo, Colorado 81009. (Consumer groups, government offices, libraries, educators, and other non-profit organizations can receive 25 or more copies regularly each quarter by writing to the same address.)

The booklets are filled with information you might not know. For instance, did you know that.....

- If you don't want to wear a money belt when traveling abroad, there is another way to guard against pickpockets: Wrap your wallet in rubber bands. It will be much more difficult for someone to remove without your noticing it. (Your Trip Abroad. Item 151P, $1.00)

- To check the tread on your tire, insert a penny, head first, into the tread. The tread should come at least to Abe's head. If not, start looking for a tire sale. (Simple Self-Service. Item 154P, $1.00)

- Some people are eligible for Social Security benefits and don't know it. For example, if you are divorced but were married for ten years to a person who was insured under Social Security, you will be eligible for Social Security benefits at age 62. (Your Social Security. Item 510P, Free)

- It is best not to take prescription drugs with soft drinks. The soda may cause the drug to dissolve in the stomach rather than in the intestines where it can be more readily absorbed into the bloodstream. (Some Things You Should Know About Prescription Drugs. Item 551P, Free)

Roads

Terhune Road from Harrison Street to Snowden Lane, and resurfacing Mt. Lucas from Ewing to Valley Road. Terhune needed extensive repairs to the road base in many areas, particularly at the Harrison Street intersection. The drainage also required attention, for there were icing problems at places where water collected, and the road needed re-leveling.

Once these repairs were made, both roads then received a two-inch FABC (fine aggregate bituminous concrete, commonly called asphalt) overlayment at a cost of $4.50 a square yard. It is Mr. Kiser's policy to treat all arteries which have high traffic volumes with the longer lasting, smoother asphalt paving. In 1984 he also embarked on a program of coating certain of the residential streets that were breaking up with an oil and chip treatment. He has received criticism for this from residents, who complain of the dust raised when the gravel is dumped onto the oiled roadway and who object that the gravel residue is hard on bicycle tires.

Defense of Policy. But Mr. Kiser defends his policy on grounds of economics and need, and he points out that the roads already had an oil and chip surface — in fact, that is one of his criteria for resurfacing them in the same manner. He also seeks out roads which are "in distress" and which need immediate attention to prevent further deterioration.

The oil and chip treatment will seal a surface that is breaking up and prevent water from getting into the cracks. "It is the freezing and thawing in these cracks that open up potholes," Mr. Kiser notes. Once the Township crews have swept up the excess stones, and traffic has compacted the fresh surface, the road looks pretty much the way it did before — but without the cracks and holes, he says.

The oil and chip treatment will "hold" a road for five years. It costs 68 cents a square yard, as opposed to $4.50 for the two-inch FABC overlay. In three years, provided there is funding for the program he has planned, Mr. Kiser hopes to have completed the asphalt resurfacing of the arterial roads and will then "drop back" to treating the residential streets in the same durable manner.

Other Sources of Funds. The taxpayer is not the only source of funds for road repair. In 1986, the Township received a state grant of $150,000 to design and construct improvements at Harrison Street and Valley Road that have been a capital budget priority item for several years. The concrete island in the middle of the intersection will be removed, and left and right turning lanes will be added for both north and south bound traffic. The turning radius will be improved, to make it easier for buses to make the turn out of the Shopping Center without seeming about to bump into the first car waiting for the light to change.

Six sycamore trees will have to be removed from the median that divides the highway, three from each side of the intersection, and the median scaled down for a distance to create the turning lanes. Mr. Kiser says four trees will be replaced, although they will not line up with the existing trees, nor will they be of the same height.

Much of the design work for the intersection has been done by Assistant Engineer Noel Sim, with input from Garmen Associates, the Township's traffic consultants. Mr. Kiser says the project will be bid out shortly for construction in 1987.

Improvements to Cherry Hill Road are Mr. Kiser's top priority for 1987. Continuing the widening to 24 feet begun at the bottom of the road by developer Benedict Yedlin as a condition for his Foullet tract approval; replacing the drainage ditches on either side of the road with storm water pipes; lengthening the culverts in two places; and replacing the galvanized guard rails at these culverts with wooden ones that will blend in better with the character of the roadway — these improvements will all come to $600,000.

"We hope to do this with minimal disturbance to the trees," Mr. Kiser says. "We want to try to maintain the rural atmosphere of the road. But you have to take traffic into consideration, along with aesthetics and engineering, and when you put them all together, you hope everyone can live with the results. It's a balancing of all these factors."

Garden State Land will pay the Township $935,000 in three installments over the next three years for improvements to Cherry Hill, Cherry Valley and Ridgeview roads. Thus the Township will be reimbursed for the $600,000 Mr. Kiser hopes to budget for Cherry Hill improvements in 1987.

The Township is building up an escrow account from the pro rata contributions of developers toward improvements that will be needed once an area reaches a certain level of development. Joseph Jingoli, developer of the Thanet Circle office buildings, was the first to pay in to this escrow account, even before the Township ordinance requiring such a contribution was formally adopted. His $50,000 will go, in time, toward a traffic light at the intersection of Terhune and Harrison Street.

Wiltshire Corp. paid approximately $50,000 to pave a portion of Poor Farm Road to its property line. And Planning Board approval of the Princeton Gateway Corporate Campus on the Mary Watts property and adjacent land included payment of approximately $150,000 for a traffic light on Route 206 and improvements to the intersection of Cherry Valley Road and Route 206.

Mr. Kiser says that the $80,000 it cost the Township to commission Garmen Associates to provide a sophisticated computer model of traffic under various development scenarios has in effect paid for itself by providing the solid data on which to negotiate the $935,000 in the settlement agreement with Dravo/Garden State Land over Princeton Ridge.

Other Priorities. Coming back to 1987, Mr. Kiser's other priorities for next year's capital budget include reconstruction of Edgerstoune Road from Route 206 to Winant Road at $150,000; Ewing Street, from Route 206 to Bunn Drive, $200,000; and Lovers Lane, $75,000. Added to the $600,000 for Cherry Hill, they come to slightly more than $1 million.

Almost one-half the cost of the Edgerstoune work will be reimbursed by contributions from Springland Associates, developers of the Russell estate. Mr. Kiser says it will be a "difficult and sensitive" project, trying to establish the 24-foot road width and reconstruct an inadequate base that bears heavy bus traffic while keeping as many of the shrubs as possible and the several cobblestone driveways.

Other Township arteries that will require attention before the Public Works Department can turn to the residential streets are Mercer Road, Harrison Street, Alexander Street and The Great Road. Mr. Kiser has written a letter asking Mercer County to take over Mercer Road, on the grounds that it is carrying just as much traffic as parallel state highway 206. Much of the traffic is regional, he points out, and the Township should not have to pay for its upkeep.

Mr. Kiser says it is "clear cut" to him what is needed on the arterial roads, and in which order, so as to get the best results for the money. But figuring out the structural and surface needs of the residential streets, and ranking the priorities, would require a study, he says.

Township Committee has approved the hiring of Pavement Management Systems of Cambridge, Ontario, to do such an evaluation at a cost of $35,000 but has not awarded the contract. The study would be put on the Township computer system, which is just "coming on line."

"A lot of thinking goes into managing a road system," Mr. Kiser remarks, as the interview ends, "especially one that has been let go for so long."

HIGHWAY SCHEMES: The shaded areas show the segments of S-92 presently preferred by the N.J. Department of Transportation. This includes Scheme 6 along the Princeton-Montgomery border, which is also preferred by Princeton Township residents and officials. The black dots indicate grade-separated interchanges, while the white dots mean at-grade intersections. The heavy line closest to Route 206 was the original proposal for relocating the state highway order to avoid the Montgomery shopping district. A spur to link 92 with Route 518 was included in this scheme.

housing, and Montgomery earlier filed challenges in both federal and county courts in an attempt to block the DOT from purchasing land in the tract for S-92. The suit was dismissed by federal court and has yet to be heard by Superior Court in Somerville.

Dismay Voiced. Last week Township Committee members had not had an opportunity to study the weighty, nine-volume DEIS, which is available to the public at the clerk's office in the Valley Road building and at the Public Library. However, they voiced their initial dismay over the expanded westerly relocation of Route 206 through the ridge. Homes along existing State Road and Arretton Drive will be affected, as well as the Princeton Ridge tract that is the subject of a recently approved agreement to settle zoning and Mt. Laurel litigation.

Earlier S-92 location studies showed a slight bowing of relocated Route 206 from a point one-half mile south of Cherry Valley Road to south of the intersection of Route 518. A spur linking the end of S-92 with Cherry Valley Road was included in this proposal.

However, as originally proposed, this relocation of Route 206 would have interfered seriously with the Princeton Community Housing development of the Peterson tract which is one of Princeton Township's affordable housing sites. In addition, it would have required the taking of some 600 feet of the existing runway at Princeton Airport, among other dislocations.

Because of these major concerns, the DOT now proposes a more westerly, and more extensive, relocation of Route 206 from a point near Arretton Road to north of the Orchard Road intersection in Montgomery. There would be at-grade intersections at Cherry Valley Road, Route 518 and Orchard Road, and a full grade-separated interchange at the terminus of Route 92.

Environmental Objection. Princeton Township is expected to object to this westerly relocation because of its impact on the environmentally sensitive ridge which it has spent much money in consultant and legal fees to protect. Princeton Borough is also expected to object to the relocation on the grounds that it dumps traffic close to Ewing Street and makes Harrison Street a conduit through a densely populated residential area of the Borough for traffic seeking Route 1.

Princeton Township is also expected to object to the full grade-separated interchange on Mt. Lucas road in the vicinity of Herrontown Road. The Township will ask instead that the intersection be shifted to Bunn Drive, which serves the office-research district and Princeton Community Village. Bunn Drive is expected to be extended to Poor Farm Road eventually.

The DEIS describes in detail affected environment and environmental consequences relating to air quality, aesthetics, cultural resources, natural ecosystems, socioeconomic and land use, noise and construction impacts. The number of families to be displaced will range from 22 to 290, and the number of businesses from 17 to 20, depending on the alternative chosen. "Monetary compensation is available," the report states, "but it is not expected to cover the psychological impacts of household disruption."

A number of farms will be split, making farm operation more difficult. There will be noise impacts in sufficient severity to warrant the construction of noise barriers in certain locations. There will be adverse effects on the Delaware and Raritan Canal Park as well as the Autumn Hill Reservation.

Somewhat surprisingly, the DOT map forecasting traffic volumes in the year 2008 shows a higher volume of traffic on Route 206 within Princeton borders and on Harrison Street if S-92 is built than under a no-build scenario. Elsewhere in the report, the DOT projects a reduction of traffic volumes at a cordon line surrounding Princeton by approximately 20 or 11 percent, depending on which alignment is followed.

The DOT also maintains that there will be a reduction in through traffic and a reduction in traffic congestion throughout Princeton.

Those who are unable to attend the public hearing and wish to comment on the alignments and schemes are invited to write John Mycoff, Office of Community Involvement, 1035 Parkway Avenue, Trenton Department of Transportation, 08625.

RELIGION

Nassau Christian Center Acquires a New Pastor

The Rev. Tony Cervero will succeed the Rev. Jesse Owens as pastor of Nassau Christian Center, an Assemblies of God church at Nassau and Chambers Streets. Mr. Owens, who founded the church with 28 other individuals eight years ago, is leaving to pursue evangelical missionary work around the world.

Mr. Cervero, 30, grew up in Erie, Pa., and received all his higher education in Springfield, Mo., where he earned a B.A. in Biblical studies and behavioral sciences from Evangel College, an M.A. in guidance and counseling from Southwest Missouri State University, and an M.Div. from Assemblies of God Theological Seminary. He was an associate pastor of an Assemblies of God church in Oklahoma City before being named national assistant secretary of the youth department for the General Council of the Assemblies of God, based in Springfield, Mo.

In this post he coordinated the national ministries of the department and acted as its public voice. Since April, he has been traveling across the U.S. and abroad as an evangelist and writing training manuals in youth ministry and discipleship.

Mr. Cervero will begin work at Nassau Christian Center December 1, sharing the pastorate with Mr. Owens until January 1. The installation service will take place December 14.

Mr. Owens and his wife Kay, a licensed minister with the Assemblies of God, will do missions work together. They will go first to a Bible college in Portugal where they teach young ministers how to pastor. Other stops in their world-wide missionary itinerary include Argentina, Colombia, Costa Rica and Bombay, India.

Mr. Owens will speak at crusades, revivals, military bases and college campuses.

The Friends Plan Series Of Talks on Quakerism

"Quaker Decision-Making" will be the subject of a talk by John Borden at the Princeton Friends Meeting, Sunday at 7:30.

The talk is the second in a series on Quakerism, with the overall title, "The Experience of Light." It will be held in the library of the First Day School on the Meeting property at the intersection of Mercer Street and Quaker Road at Stony Brook. The series is intended for the public as well as for members and attenders of the meeting.

John Borden is a Princeton resident and member of the Princeton Friends Meeting. He brings to the talk his experience as clerk of the meeting, clerk at one time or another of most of the committees of the meeting, and affiliation with the American Friends Service Committee as a fundraiser traveling on its behalf. He will discuss the variety of structures in Friends' meeting; how Friends accomplish the work that is brought before them; and the relation of their structures and processes to the inward light.

Quaker decision-making outwardly resembles the consensus models currently used by many groups. Inwardly, however, at its best, it is a spiritual exercise, an effort at group discernment.

This talk is the second in a series designed to relate some of Friends' history, faith and practice to the living experience lying at its heart.

Bulletin Notes

The Montgomery United Methodist Church will hold its ninth annual Christmas Village Bazaar on Friday, November 21, from 4 to 9, and Saturday, November 22, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., at the church on Sunset Road in Belle Mead.

Holiday shoppers will find hundreds of handcrafted gifts, holiday decorations and festive foods. Specialty booths this year include the Nature Shoppe and Tree Ornaments, augmented by the Art Studio, Sweet Shoppe, Bake Shoppe, Frozen Gourmet, Curiosity Shoppe, Kitchen Pantry, Children's Gifts, Silent Auction, and Cafe.

Saturday morning, from 9 to 11, the Cafe will offer a special, all-you-can-eat pancake breakfast for $3 for those who want to get an early start. Senior citizens are especially welcome; to assist their holiday shopping on Saturday, the Bazaar will open an hour early at 9 for senior citizens only.

Children will find a special area where they will find inexpensive gifts for their families and friends, as well as a game room in which to relax while parents complete their shopping. Free babysitting will be available for parents of smaller children.

Antique furniture and artifacts will be in abundance at Tontoonstalling '86, which will be held at Blawenburg Reformed Church in Montgomery Township on Saturday from 9 to 3.

Tom Skillman, co-chairman of the Antiques Booth, says that this year's quantity is due to donations from two local residents. Desks, stands, a spinning wheel, lamps, bottles, plank bottom chairs, baskets, kettles, restored trunks, drop-leaf and extension tables, tools and kitchen utensils will be sold.

In addition, there will be booths selling Christmas decorations, home decor items, crafts, white elephant items, plants and trees, baked goods, and gourmet foods.

Lunch will be served from 11 until 1:30, and child care will be available throughout the day. The sanctuary will be open for inspection, and organ music will be played.

Prof. Ake W. Sjöberg will speak on "What They Learned in School in Ancient Sumeria" Tuesday at 8 in St. Paul's School gym. The lecture is one of a series sponsored by St. Paul's Church and The Aquinas Foundation.

Prof. Sjöberg is Clark Research Professor of Assyriology at the University of Pennsylvania and curator of the tablet collection of the University Museum of Philadelphia. An acknowledged expert on the ancient world, he is the author of many books and articles about the Sumerian peoples (who lived in what is southern Iraq from 2400-2000BC) and their languages.

The West Windsor Catholic Club will hold its annual Communion Breakfast Sunday, November 23, at 9 at Sherwood Crossing Inn, Windsor. Father Martin Padovani, a licensed individual, family and marriage therapist who holds a master's degree in clinical psychology, will speak.

Fr. Padovani was appointed

LET'S TALK ABOUT

ROOT DISEASE:
with Sam DaTuro
Woodwinds Associates

Many symptoms of root diseases are not immediately obvious and give little identification of avertity. Pay close attention to changes in your plants.

There are several types of root diseases, such as Crown Gall, Root Rot and miscellaneous diseases and injuries such as change in soil grade, construction damage, salt injury, girdling roots, weather conditions, insects, rodents, and wilt diseases.

When trees start to decline in vigor for one or more years, shoot growth is reduced and foliage is off-color or dwarfed, upper branches top or crown wilts and dies back, a heavy crop of fruit appears (berries, cones, etc.). These are all symptoms of root problems.

CROWN GALL: This disease usually appears at or near the soil line or a graft union on the roots. Rounded swellings develop and may enlarge to a foot or more in diameter. Young galls are light colored and spongy. As they age they become hard woody and almost black in color and have a rough surface. Young trees affected with crown gall are stunted and the foliage turns yellow and withers.

ROOT ROTS: are caused by soilborne fungi primary species of Armillaria and Phytophthora.

ARMILLARIA is one of the most common. It attacks a wide range of woody plants such as Oaks, Maples, Fire, Pinus, Dogwoods. Symptoms are decline in vigor, leaves turn pale green or yellow, wilt and drop prematurely and the upper crown dies back. It is identified by the white to creamy-white fan-shaped paper-thick sheets of Armillaria mycelium growing under the bark and over the water-soaked sapwood at the trunk base or in the main roots near the root collar. The mycelium has a strong mushroom odor.

PHYTOPHTHORA ROOT ROTS: Infect a wide range of trees and shrubs such as Apple, Arborvitae, Azalea, Birch, Crabapple, Cedar, Dogwood, Fir, Larch, Locust, Oak, Pear, Pine, Rhododendron, Spruce, Walnut and Yew. Phytophthora root rots appear in areas with high soil moisture, where soil is poorly drained and low in fertility. The symptoms are: dead branches occur in the upper crown area and sprouts appear on the trunk. In evergreens the current year's needles are stunted and turn yellow-green. In broadleaved trees the leaves are light green and fall prematurely.

Loss of trees from root rot can be controlled by the following practices.

1. Plant disease-free trees in fertile well drained soil.
2. Avoid wounds to roots and tree base.
3. Keep well watered during dry periods.
4. Keep fertilized and remove all dead, diseased and weak limbs.

Call on WOODWINDS for all your tree care needs. (609-924-3500).

LIGHT HORSE HILL FARM - HOPEWELL

For well over 200 years, this lovely farm has nestled peacefully in the gentle hills of Hopewell. Disturbed briefly during the chaos of the Revolution by a visit from "Light Horse" Harry Lee, it earned a place in the history of the area. Fenced meadows, timbered barns and spring house shelter the pool, terraces, gardens and house. A sensitive addition blends with the original residence and the integrity of the architectural details have been completely preserved. Two living rooms, distinguished by carved mantels, dining with walk-in fireplace, study, five bedrooms with two additional fireplaces, kitchen, and 2 full plus 2 half baths complete the interior. All on 9.2 acres.

Radon Problem Leads to Massive Efforts By State to Provide Help and Information

4	0.02	13—50	10 times average outdoor level	200 chest x-rays per year
2	0.01	7—30	Average indoor level	Non-smoker risk of dying from lung cancer
1	0.005	3—13	Average indoor level
0.2	0.001	1—3	Average outdoor level	20 chest x-rays per year

HOW RISKY IS RADON? This EPA chart compares a lifetime of exposure to radon with the risk from other activities and with average outdoor radon levels. The levels measured in a basement where no one lives should not be used for comparison.

New Jersey is on the cutting edge of a national radon issue. Reports indicate that the state has already appropriated more money for its radon problem than the entire federal radon program. Central to the New Jersey program is the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) Radon Hotline, 800-648-0394. It provides information about radon, a list of radon testing companies, and it offers access to radiation specialists who will answer questions about radon.

A free re-testing program is also administered by the state, and in some areas by local health officials.

In early 1987, New Jersey will initiate a certification program for the radon testing companies and possibly radon mitigation companies operating in New Jersey. Certification may eliminate some of the companies currently in this hot new business and should help insure the competency and quality of the remaining firms.

The state has also recently committed funds to two major research projects. DEP awarded a $1.3 million, 18-month contract to Camp Dresser & McKee, a Boston-based company in Edison. They will develop and execute a state-wide survey to measure radon levels in 6,000 homes. The information will be used to help pinpoint the areas and types of buildings that tend to have radon problems.

"They are going to evaluate the geology of the state and the soils of the state, looking at available data as a base," explained Dr. Hotte, Acting Bureau Chief of N.J. DEP Bureau of Environmental Radiation. "Then they are going to develop a model looking at the geology and at the various housing structures in order to determine those houses in the state that are at high risk."

Radon and Lung Cancer. The Department of Health (DOH) is sponsoring the second 18-month project, an epidemiological study to measure radon levels in the homes of recent lung cancer patients in New Jersey. While current data on the relationship between radon and lung cancer are based on studies of uranium miners, this test will study residential radon and lung cancer.

With the National Cancer Institute and the N.J. Cancer Epidemiology Program, DOH will use 1,000 lung cancer cases and a 1,000-member control group to study the link between indoor radon and cancer. After determining where the individuals lived from 1953 to 1973, they will go into the identified residences and try to estimate radon levels retrospectively.

A third state program is in the planning stages. The Department of Community Affairs is planning a program to offer remediation methods and may develop new construction building codes for high radon areas.

A variety of other research programs are in progress around the state. The questions, concerning where indoor radon is likely to be found and how it can be controlled, should have more answers within the weeks and months ahead.

Princeton University's Center for Energy and Environmental Research, Oak Ridge Laboratory, and DEP, in conjunction with Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory and the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), are currently studying a sample of 14 houses in New Jersey in order to study the various mitigation choices. "We're looking at improved diagnostic techniques," explained David Harrje, Senior Research Engineer at Princeton's Center for Energy and Environmental Research — "solutions that will not waste the mitigation dollars — how to get the most for the dollars."

Each house in the test sample has an instrument package measuring weather, radon levels and other factors. The environmental factors, the building construction, and extensive soil sampling will be studied to learn how the radon gets into the house, how it moves within the structure, and how it can be reduced.

The National Association of Homebuilders (NAHB) is initiating a study using 100 New Jersey builders. They will look at soil measurements, building plans, and once a structure is built, will measure its radon levels in order to develop a manual for builders on precautions to take against radon at various levels of radon gas in the soil.

Prevention. In the Princeton area developers have begun testing the soil at building sites to avoid radon problems with new construction. Radon consultants are working with area builders to deal with radon structurally, before homes are built.

A recent EPA project in Clinton should yield practical information about radon mitigation. Last spring, when extremely high radon, including levels over 1,000 pico Curies per liter (pCi/l), were reported in a Clinton neighborhood, EPA initiated a study of 100 homes. The program included EPA-sponsored full remediation work on one group of homes, testing and diagnosis on another group, and just testing on the other residences, leaving remediation up to the individual homeowners.

Remediation of high indoor radon is challenging. If a 99 percent reduction of radon is achieved, homes in the 1000 pCi/l range would still be above the acceptable level outlined by the EPA. Success in remediating the high-level homes has been encouraging, despite the odds. According to Dr. Hotte, eight of the homes with readings over 1,000 pCi/l have already been reduced to EPA acceptable levels. A draft final report on the findings of this study should be out this week.

Locally, Montgomery Township is conducting a non-scientific, voluntary test survey. According to Montgomery's health officer, Charlie Searfoss, the volunteer homes happen to be located throughout the Township. Although individual tests will be kept confidential, results of the survey will be available in mid-November.

For individual homeowners simple testing techniques using charcoal canisters or alpha track detectors will reveal radon levels in the home.

While radon testing is still new to most of the country, it

Wacky New York Atmosphere Portrayed In Brilliant Production of 'Little Murders'

DISCUSSING HER MARITAL PROSPECTS: Patsy Newquist (Leslie Gercl) tells her father, played by Jack Murdock, that he'd better like the boyfriend she has brought home for his approval; she is 27, and all her other prospects are married. "I can't wait five years for their divorces to come through," she says in Act I of "Little Murders," the Jules Feiffer comedy playing at McCarter.

Jules Feiffer has a sharp eye for the absurdities of modern life in America and a rare talent for making them seem wildly funny, usually in cartoons but also in his 1966 play Little Murders, which is currently getting a brilliant production at McCarter Theatre.

It is clear why McCarter's Artistic Director Nagle Jackson put this play in repertory with Our Town. It could be called Our City. Wilder's masterpiece portrays some ordinary New England villagers of 100 or so years ago; Feiffer gives us a family in New York City in 1968.

Wilder's picture is of down-to-earth people in a down-to-earth place. Feiffer's is of wacky people in a place for which wacky is far too mild a word.

Little Murders deals with the Newquist family in their apartment, probably on the Upper West Side of Manhattan. At the start, father, mother and post-teenage brother Kenny are awaiting the arrival for dinner of twentyish daughter Patsy with her latest boyfriend. Crusty, nervous father, Carol, who hates his own name, is sure Patsy's latest will be like all the others this successful career-woman has brought home, a limp-wristed "swish."

The New York atmosphere and basic mood of the comedy

are nicely established by the triple-locked front door, sounds of traffic and sporadic shooting from the street several floors below, and by occasional phone calls from a heavy-breather.

Patsy's latest turns out to be tall, muscular, masculine-looking, taciturn Alfred, somewhat bruised about the face because, he explains, smaller people like to mug and beat on him. In answer to Father's belligerent question, he says he doesn't fight back because he doesn't want to give them the satisfaction of a fight. "A pacifist?" demands Father. "Apathist," says Alfred.

Hilarious Dinner. After a dinner made howlingly funny by both Feiffer's lines and dozens of small creative touches by Director Paul Weidner, bossy Patsy decides to marry Alfred. He hasn't asked her, but is agreeable to the idea. She worries that Alfred's sinking into a daydream when being attacked signifies his inability to feel, but is sure she can remold him more to her taste.

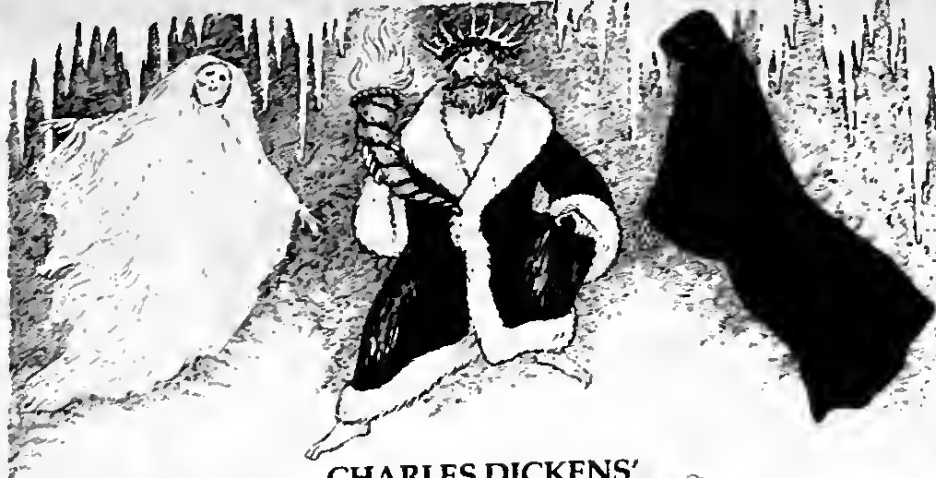

Brother Kenny meanwhile has revealed his homosexuality and decamped with Patsy's wardrobe.

Most of Act II is the wedding, and a rich caricature it is of some such late '60s ceremonies. Since Alfred refuses to have God mentioned in the service, the long-haired, bearded leader of a hippy Greenwich Village congregation has been chosen to conduct it. (His church is said to have a sign outside saying, "Christ died for our sins. Should we render his martyrdom meaningless by failing to commit them?"

'Little Murders'

Patsy has barely begun remodeling Alfred's character when a stray bullet from the street-fighting below kills her in her new husband's arms, leaving bright red blood on his hand.

Here ends Act II — and here, for this reviewer, the comedy pretty much ends, too.

Act III, six months later, serves up more funny lines and touches — including armor-plating on door and windows, and Mother's coming home from marketing with milk streaming 'out of a bullet-pierced carton in her grocery bag — but a satirical farce that has been teetering on the edge of preachiness now gets heavy-handed.

Not only has the city deteriorated, so have its citizens. Alfred, no longer pacific, has bought a rifle ("It was on sale") with which he, Father and a mysteriously returned Kenny snipe at pedestrians below through an aperture in the steel-shuttered windows.

One of those felled is police lieutenant Miles Practice, who has just been in the apartment explaining his discovery of the motivation back of 345 unsolved murders in the last six months: someone wants to shake people's faith in the police.

Little Murders was a third of a failure for this viewer because with Patsy's death it jumped the social-farce track it had laid for itself and the audience, and on which it was zipping along so effectively.

Random violence could be laughed at when it was kept at a distance, made unreal by exaggeration; but with Patsy's death, and Alfred's bloody hand, reality broke through.

We all know New York's violence has gone to the point of absurdity. A mad comedy underlining that point might move people with brains and imagination to do something bright and inventive about it.

But in reality there is nothing funny about the situation, and Patsy's death shatters the fragile comic capsule in which Mr. Feiffer has been conveying us. Not only do we feel uncomfortable laughing at what follows, we feel so for having laughed at all the wonderful wackiness that went before.

Or so it seemed to this witness.

Superb Cast. The cast is superb: Jack Murdock as the irascible, super-conservative father; Ruth Schudson as the always-on-the-run mother; Rick Lawless as the agile, naturally comic Kenny, a young actor for whom one might predict a good future.

A McCarterite we were glad to see back is Leslie Geraci, who has distinguished herself here and elsewhere and does so again as Patsy, the goodlooking blonde businesswoman with the jiu jitsu moves.

Perhaps the most original performance is Michael O'Hare's as stalwart Alfred, whose tribulations as a professional photographer seem drawn from life. His experience with a fed agent monitoring his mail seems drawn from some other character's life.

Henson Keyes as the far-out Rev. Henry Dupas puts on a stunning one-man comedy-within-the-comedy as he marries Patsy to Alfred before an attractive handful of wedding guests including Karl Light, Jay Doyle, Anne Sheldon, and Greg Thornton.

Jeff Brooks as Lieut. Miles, who has been working futilely on the case of an older New-quist son street-slain years ago, has a role probably impossible to make believable, even as a caricature, but he strives commendably.

Daniel Boylen's set is pleasant to look at, and the armor-plating of Act III is chillingly convincing. Costumes by Elizabeth Covey, especially Rev. Dupas's are just right; and F. Mitchell Dana's lighting puts a flickering Con Ed neatly into the picture.

All in all there is much to enjoy here, including the opportunity to figure out for yourself what it all adds up to.

Women in Vietnam
Subjects of New Play
Playwrights-at-McCarter, the theatre's series of staged readings of new works, concludes its fall series with Joe DiMiceli's Casualties, a drama of women's experiences in Vietnam, which will be read by professional actors in the Forbes College Theatre, 115 Alexander Road, Monday at 7:30 p.m. Admission is free.
Casualties takes place 15 years after Vietnam, when an ex-combat nurse, turned clinical psychologist, fights to continue her treatment of other nurses, trying to unlock them from a past that controls their present. It is a barshly realistic but humane examination of the women's experiences in Vietnam, their mental defenses, and bureaucracy at home.
The reading will be followed by a discussion with the playwright, Joe DeMiceli, moderated by director Robert Lancheester. For more information call 452-5156 or 452-6619.
Judas and Kelly Gomez as Mary. Also featured are David Soltero in the role of Peter, Jeffrey Babey as Herod, Sal Boruso as Pilate, Martin Kennedy as Annas, David Price as Caiaphas, and Robert Wilkerson in the role of Simon.

A dinner theater production of The Fantasticks, the longest running musical ever, will open for two nights at Trenton State College on Friday, November 21. The play, which is being presented by the college's Opera Workshop, will be performed at 7 on both nights in Bray Hall.
The Fantasticks is the story of a boy and a girl who are neighbors. Their parents deliberately construct a wall between their homes so they will contrive to meet and fall in love. Their plot works well until the wall is removed and the couple, whose love is no longer forbidden, decide to part ways.
The musical is known for its pretty tunes and clever lyrics. Tickets for the show, including dinner, are $15 for general admission and $10 for TSC students, faculty and staff. They are available at the Student Center information desk.

'Jesus Christ Superstar' At Franklin Barn Theater
The Franklin Villagers Barn Theatre will present the classic rock opera Jesus Christ Superstar opening Friday at 8:30. The musical chronicles the last few days in the life of Jesus.
Jesus Christ Superstar was written by Andrew Lloyd Webber and Tim Rice, who collaborated on such notable shows as Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat and Evita. Separately, Mr. Webber conceived and wrote the long-running Broadway hit Cats, while Mr. Rice's Chess recently opened in London.
Mark Hopkins directs the show, Mary Brienza is choreographer, and Peter Crimi is musical director. Featured in the cast are Matthew Smith in the title role, Gerard P. Lebeda as

Triangle Club Brings Lots of Spirit to Presentation of 'Applause'

THE GYPSIES sing the finale of the title song in Princeton Triangle Club's fall production "Applause." The musical will run this weekend and next at the Triangle-Broadmead Theatre, 171 Broadmead.

In our lives most of us seek some form of praise and approval. For those in the theater it comes as the wordless, yet so gratifying, applause. That theatrical form of approval is just what was heard from the largely student audience at Friday night's performance of the aptly named musical Applause. Presented by Princeton University Triangle Club, Applause deals with one actress' struggle to hold center stage even as her spotlight is being stolen from her.

It is based on the 1950 film All

About Eve and the original story by Mary Orr. Betty Comden and Adolph Green wrote the book, having already authored such greats as On the Town and Singin' in the Rain, while Charles Strouse and Lee Adams collaborated on the music and lyrics with Bye, Bye, Birdie already to their credit. The original stage production of Applause opened to rave reviews in 1970, with Lauren Bacall in the leading role. By the end of that first season, Applause had swept the Tony Awards.

How It All Began... Fittingly, the show opens with a Tony Award presentation. The famous but aging Margo Channing presents a Tony Award to the young Eve Harrington. In turn, Eve proclaims that she owes it all to Margo. The flashbacks begin and we see how it all started.

In Triangle Club's production, the "star," Margo Channing, was unevenly played by Margarita S. Andreu. The difficult role of Margo, a middle-aged actress who displays as many moods as she has acting credits, demands a lot of experience. Having made the theater her whole life, Margo discovers that life running out of her. Miss Andreu did give the overall sense of this emotional crisis, but fell short of its painful depths.

The young ingenue, Eve Harrington, who comes to bask in Margo's spotlight, is played by Carol Dunne with a convincing innocence which well conceals her intentions. As she sings, "The Best Night of My Life" the audience seems certain that this star-struck girl has been dazzled by her good fortune.

The one character she does not seem able to convince of her innocence is Bill Sampson (Paul A. Stewart), who accepts Eve for her talent, but discards her for her methods. As Margo's director and lover, Mr. Stewart captured the heart of the audience, especially the three girls sitting next to me who were on the edge of their seat as he quite tenderly sang "Think How It's Gonna Be" and "One of a Kind."

Kudos to the Cast. The lively Erik C. Brodnax gave the show lots of extra spirit as Margo's hairdresser and confidant. Also worth mentioning are Glenn Pannell and Sheila McLenaghan who played the oh-so-preppie playwright and his wife — clean shaven, green plaided, with a country home in Connecticut. Andrew Blau, the producer, went from quietly flirtatious to demanding possessive. And Melissa A. Schramm was the nosy, overbearing columnist.

The chorus played "the gyp-

The program will include Schubert's Quartet in G Minor, No. 8, Beethoven's Quartet in F Major, Opus 59, No. 1, and a work written especially for them, the 1984 String Quartet by Shulamit Ran. The composer, who will be in residence at Princeton University this spring, has received grants from the Ford Foundation, the National Endowment for the Arts, and Chamber Music America among others and was the recipient of a 1977 Guggenheim Fellowship. Her compositions have been presented by the New York and Israel Philharmonic orchestras, at the Tanglewood Festival, and by contemporary performance groups around the country.

'Old Time' Folk Music By Guitar & Banjo Player

The Princeton Folk Music Society will feature Tom Paley in a concert on Friday at 8 p.m. at the YM-YWCA.

The Folk Music Society says that few living musicians have influenced the American folk scene as profoundly as Mr. Paley. The dazzling guitar and banjo picking of his first album, Folk Songs of the Southern Appalachian Mountains, combines authenticity and mastery of a range of traditional styles.

As a founder-member of the New Lost City Ramblers, he was responsible for introducing a large number of Americans to their own heritage. He has

Over the years, Mr. Paley has remained true to the old-time music he performed years ago, expanding his repertoire within the genre and adding the fiddle to his instrumental arsenal.

Admissions are $5 for adults, $4 for students, $4 for Society members, $2 for children and senior citizens. There are no advance sales. Memberships are available at the door. For further information, call 298-7643.

sies," the sometimes-in-work, sometimes-out-of-work dancers and actors. They sang "Backstage Babble," the title song "Applause," and "She's No Longer a Gypsy," which for the space available was well choreographed by Holly Cole.

All this song and dance was backed up by no less than a 14-piece orchestra (which was quite a lot of sound for the small theater) under the direction of Matthew Kaplan. The set design by Greg Van Horn was unfortunately a bit too ambitious, again due to a limited play area. Triangle's new arrangement for audience seating provides better sight lines but creates a stage area which is very wide and very shallow. Large set pieces therefore needed to be rolled on and off between scenes, which took quite a long time and on a few occasions broke the flow of the show (as well as some props). However, the use of the blinds in the background was clever and very effective.

The all-student production was produced by Hans Kriefall, directed by Robert Gleason, with vocal direction by Adam Dyer, lighting design by Stephen Bohrer and costume design by Allie Liu and Lance Ketterer.

Applause, as the press release states is "Princeton Triangle Club's most ambitious fall production to date." And an ambitious show it is, but everyone seemed to accept the challenge and offer his or her best, all for applause, applause, which I gave them. There are several good performances and lots of life in this show — just be prepared for a few bumps too.

Applause will continue at Triangle-Broadmead Theatre, 171 Broadmead, on November 13-16 and 20-23. Tickets are available at the McCarter box office. For reservations, call 452-5200.

Extra Performance Set By Paul Taylor Dance

Returning to open the 1986-87 Dance-at-McCarter series, the Paul Taylor Dance Company will offer two Princeton premieres at a special non-subscription performance on Wednesday, November 19 at 8 p.m. Although the first two performances this Friday and Saturday are sold out on subscription, seats are available for the November 19 performance. Call 452-5200.

AN EXTRA PERFORMANCE on Wednesday, November 19, at 8 has been added to the Paul Taylor Dance Company's McCarter schedule. The program that night will include "Roses" and "Last Look," both Princeton premieres, and "Esplanade." Here, Linda Kent and David Parsons dance "Alas," choreographed by Paul Taylor to music by G.F. Handel.

At the November 18 performance, the Paul Taylor Company will present Roses and Last Look. Both are among the latest works of founder-choreographer Paul Taylor and received their New York premieres during the company's 1985 season. Roses is set to Wagner's Siegfried Idyll and Adagio for Clarinet and Strings. With stylistic links to such earlier Taylor works as Arden Court and Aureole, Roses is danced by five couples, headed by David Parsons and Kate Johnson.

The second Princeton premiere will be Taylor's Last Look, set to an original score by Donald York. Described as a "frightening vision of urban apocalypse," Last Look is danced against a setting of triangular pillars by designer Alex Katz. The nine dancers, again headed by David Parsons with Susan McGuire, are outfitted in green jumpsuits (for the men) and flotsam pieces of evening wear (for the women). The program will be completed by one of Paul Taylor's classic hits, Esplanade, created in 1975 to the music of Bach.

Tickets are priced $15, $18 and $21. Call the McCarter box office at 452-5200, noon to six p.m., Monday through Saturday. Charges are welcome.

Extra Activities for AIDS Accompany Play 'As Is'

George Street Playhouse begins its 13th season with the New Jersey premiere of William M. Hoffman's award-winning As Is, a play about AIDS. The Playhouse has scheduled several special activities in conjunction with the production.

This Sunday, following the performance, the Playhouse will hold a panel discussion on "Theater as Social Action," focusing in particular on the medical, legal and legislative impact of AIDS. The panel members will consist of Jack Wysocki, attorney and long-time civil liberties activist; Joan Whitlow, health and science reporter from the Star Ledger; Sarah Strohmeyer, health and science reporter from the Home News; Norman Clevely, coordinator of the AIDS Education project for the Gay and Lesbian Coalition of New Jersey; and Margaret Koury, Muhlenberg Hospital nurse working with AIDS patients. The discussion is open to anyone who wishes to attend and will begin approximately at 10 p.m.

On Tuesday, in conjunction with the nation's celebration of National Arts Week, George Street Playhouse will sponsor a VIP night, with guests from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts, the New Jersey legislature, the board of freeholders, the Dodge Foundation and representatives from business, industry and the arts. Following the performance, there will be a reception in the cafe.

As Is runs from November 7 to 30, with previews November 5 and 6. Performances are scheduled Tuesday-Sunday evenings, with matinees on Sunday and alternate Wednesdays and Saturdays. Tickets cost from $13 to $22, with discounts available for students, seniors and groups of 20 or more.

Eight-dollar "quik ticks" may be obtained at the box office on the day of performance from noon to one half-hour before curtain, for any performance except Friday and Saturday evenings. Dinner/theater packages are available at the box office on Tuesday, Wednesday and Sunday evenings, and Sunday matinees for $27. For tickets and additional information, call the box office at (201) 246-7717, Tuesday through Sunday, noon to 9 p.m. or Monday, noon to 5.

Two Directors at Work On Oscar Wilde Comedy

The Importance of Being Earnest, Oscar Wilde's comic masterpiece about marriage and mistaken identity, will run November 14 - 23 at Rutgers University's Levin Theater.

The production was conceived by Harold Scott, 25-year veteran and director, and is being directed by Mr. Scott and Robert Lanchester, associate artistic director of McCarter Theater.

The Importance of Being Earnest will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, November 14-15, and Tuesday through Saturday, November 18-22. Sunday matinees will be held at 2 on November 16 and 23. The play previews on Thursday, November 13; there is no performance on Monday, November 17.

All performances are in the Levin Theater of the Rutgers Arts Center, George Street at Route 18. Tickets cost $9, with discounts for groups, subscribers, senior citizens and Rutgers students, faculty and staff. Tickets and information on all Theater at Rutgers productions are available from the Rutgers Arts ticket office, (201) 932-7511.

may become big business. K-Mart will soon market alpha track detectors, according to Jim Davidson, president of Radon Detection Service (RDS), the largest testing company in the country. In a market test undertaken by RDS, a drug store in Flemington is currently doing a brisk business in testing devices.

The winter season is the prime time to test for radon because indoor radon levels are highest at this time of year. One of the best test bargains is being offered by the Christmas Seal people. The American Lung Association of New Jersey will provide a three-month do-it-yourself "Radtrack" testing service to all residents of northern New Jersey at a discount price of $20.

To request the service send $20 to the American Lung Association of New Jersey, 1600 Route 22 East, Union, N.J. 07083. Because of the large volume of orders anticipated, the Lung Association will be unable to accept telephone requests.

This series on radon was based on interviews with New Jersey DEP officials, local health officials, realtors, homeowners, radon researchers, and representatives of radon testing and mitigation companies. EPA literature, DEP lists, newspaper reports, The National Law Journal, National Building News, and New Jersey Hazardous Waste News are among the research documents used.

An Afternoon With A Princeton Author

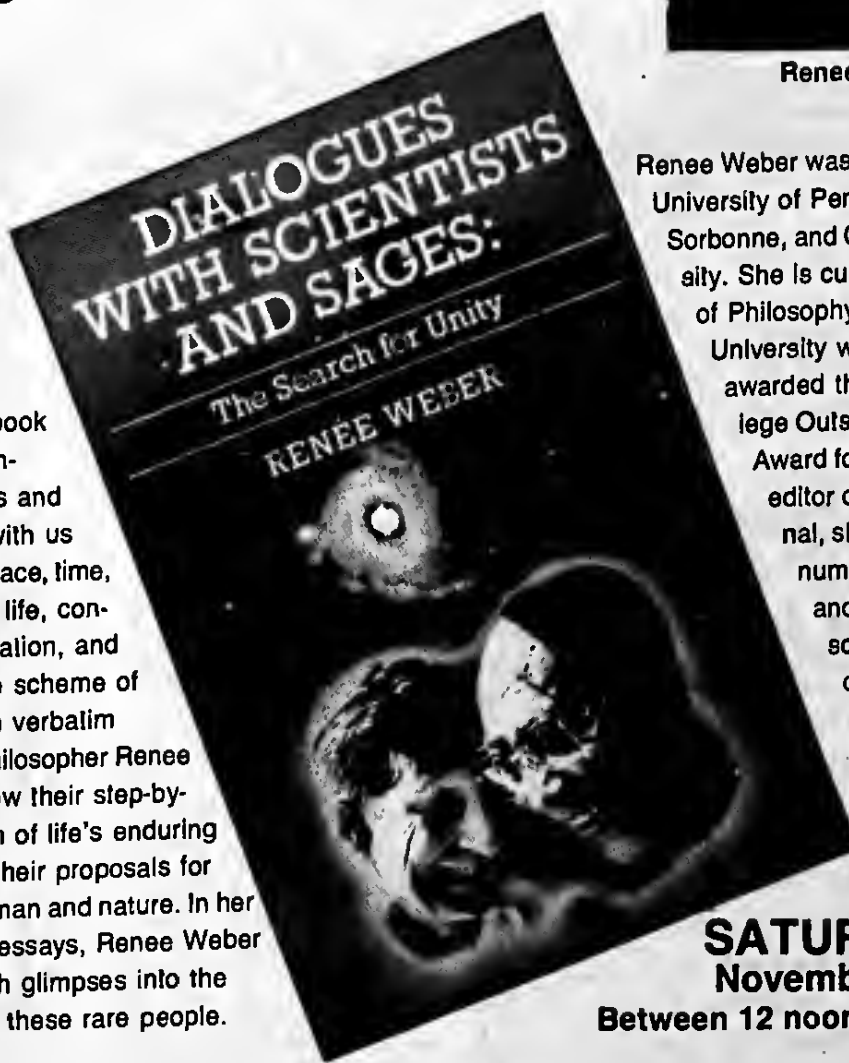

Meet Renée Weber

who will autograph
her exciting new publication

"Dialogues With Scientists and Sages: The Search For Unity"

Renée Weber

This is the first book in which contemporary scientists and mystics share with us their views on space, time, matter, energy, life, consciousness, creation, and our place in the scheme of things. Through verbal dialogue with philosopher Renée Weber, we follow their step-by-step exploration of life's enduring questions and their proposals for new models of man and nature. In her accompanying essays, Renée Weber provides us with glimpses into the personalities of these rare people.

Renée Weber was educated at the University of Pennsylvania, the Sorbonne, and Columbia University. She is currently Professor of Philosophy at Rutgers University where she was awarded the Rutgers College Outstanding Teacher Award for 1979. A former editor of ReVision Journal, she has published numerous interviews and articles on science and mysticism. She lives in Princeton, N.J.

A Time-Honored Custom: English Shop Shopping

"The luckiest day of my life was a beautiful spring day in April of 1942 when I got off the Dinky and walked to Nassau Street," recalls Eric Mihan with a smile. "I knew this was good, and it always has been. The Mihans never had it so good."

Owner and founder of The English Shop at 32 Nassau Street, Mr. Mihan never regretted his decision to leave New York City and come to Princeton. "I had two little boys, and I wanted to get out of New York. I looked around, and then a chance came to work in Princeton."

Those "two little boys," Eric, Jr. and Herb, are now co-owners of the store with their father, and it has become a two-generation operation, says Mr. Mihan. "It's wonderful to have two sons carry on the business. What could be better?"

Recalling those early days in Princeton, Mr. Mihan looks back with a feeling of pleasure at the success of the store and also with a recognition of the hard work it required. "It was work, for sure. From the day I started, it's been 12 hours a day, seven days a week. You've got to pay the price."

"I'm slowing down now," he adds. "I'm not in so many

FROM GENERATION TO GENERATION: Celebrating its 35th anniversary this week, The English Shop continues to provide top quality men's and women's clothing. The Mihans, Eric, Jr., Herb and Eric, Sr., offer assistance and advice to customers seeking a classic, traditional look.

nights, but I still come in on Sunday when I can get a lot of work done."

Mr. Mihan's first job in Princeton was in the food, rather than the clothing, field. He worked for Renwick's, a popular restaurant on Nassau Street, for a short time. An opportunity came along to work for Langrock's, the men's clothing store, also on Nassau Street, and he found it a chance to learn about tailoring and fine quality clothing, especially imported goods.

After a stay of two years at Langrock's, he became manager of the Student Tailor Shop on the Princeton University campus. "I'm very proud of that," he says. "It was very successful. We did the most business of any agency on campus at that time."

Opened in 1951. The desire to start his own business was becoming stronger, however, and on November 11, 1951, he opened The English Shop on Palmer Square West.

"I always wanted to start my own business, to have a business of my own, whatever it was. I did the buying at the Student Tailor Shop, so I was familiar with that part of the business. I had been buying imported wools, and I knew a lot of English importers and liked them. I was sold on the quality of imported goods. I said, 'Look, I don't have any money. I need some merchandise to get started.' All of them went along with me and gave me credit. I was impressed with the way they did business."

I still do business with them. They're fine people."

"I chose The English Shop as the name because of this," he continues, "and also Princeton was a very Anglophile town then. It's been a good choice."

Although hopeful and confident at the time, he never envisioned the extent of his store's success. "If anyone then had predicted it would be so successful, I would have said, 'Oh, come on!' But we must have done something right, and we do have a good reputation. Customers know they can rely on the quality here."

"I've enjoyed everything about it," he adds, "including, and especially, the 12-hour days. I've also always had the attitude that there's room for improvement. Things can always be better."

Originally concentrating exclusively on men's clothing, the shop added women's apparel in 1957 when it moved to its present location on Nassau Street. This proved so successful that in 1964, the store expanded its quarters, moving the women's department into its own section next door.

Traditional Styles. Both the men's and women's departments emphasize classic, traditional styles. "We don't get carried away," smiles Mr. Mihan. "I know the clothing and the quality and the tailoring. We've stayed with what has worked. We're an Ivy League, three-button, natural-shoulder store. Fashion in men's wear doesn't bother us. There really isn't an awful lot to do with men's clothing. We were always moderate, conservative and honest, and we've always sold at a fair price."

Adds Herb Mihan, "At the different price points, everything has to meet or exceed our quality standards. We want the merchandise to reflect positively on The English Shop. Men's suits range from $275 to $645, for example, and are of the highest quality."

Customers have appreciated The English Shop's dedication to quality and service and have supported the store through the years. "Princeton alumni come back from time to time and say 'What! You still here?'" laughs Mr. Mihan. "I'm glad when they stop in."

Gertrude Nesch, who has been with the store 25 years and now manages the women's department, also comments on the loyalty of the customers. "We have many regular customers, even among those who move away. They will often call on the phone to order things."

Quality Merchandise. "We're classic and traditional here," she adds, "and the people who shop here know that. The merchandise is quality. If they buy a suit, for example, they know they can wear it a long time. There are trends, of course. One season dresses are in, another, suits or coordinates. Hats have become very popular again, especially in the past three years. It depends on the mood of the customers."

Customers will find an extensive selection of suits in the women's department ("We have suits for the professional woman to wear to work and suits for evening wear"), as well as dresses, coats, skirts, blacks, blouses and sweaters. Accessories, such as jewelry, belts, gloves, hats, scarves, handbags and umbrellas, are also available, as are robes, pajamas and nightgowns.

The men's department includes suits, sport coats, slacks, coats, shirts, sweaters of all kinds, accessories such as ties, belts, hats, gloves and umbrellas, as well as underwear, robes, pajamas and nightshirts.

As they celebrate the shop's 35th anniversary this week, the Mihans will mark the occasion with special notice. "As a 'Thank You' for the last 35 years, we are going to donate $3500 to the WHWH/WPST Family Food Fund," says Herb Mihan. "Also, we will have a drawing for airline tickets for two, New York to London, compliments of British Caledonian Airways. Just come in through Saturday, November 15, to register.

"This is surely one of the most pleasant communities in the whole country in which to be in the retail business," he continues. "It's certainly been good to us."

His father shares that sentiment completely. Although there have been many changes in Princeton since he first arrived that day in 1942, some things have remained. "Princeton still has its charm," he remarks, "and I've never met anyone but nice people here. It's truly been a joy ride. And my message to Princeton is: Thank you for your support." Hours for The English Shop are Monday-Saturday 9 to 6, and Friday until 8:30.

Ambiance at Ambleside Features Plants, Crafts

How did an art history major from Bryn Mawr and a history major at Yale come to open a garden center in Belle Mead, New Jersey? Although their interests took them in other directions for many years, Mary and Townsend Scudder, owners of Ambleside Gardens & Nursery on Route 206, Belle Mead, had long been interested in gardening and landscaping.

In 1965, Mr. Scudder decided to give up his daily commute to New York and concentrate on establishing a new garden center.

Ambleside has acquired a fine reputation in the years since, and Mrs. Scudder reports that "people come from all over the surrounding area, as well as New York state, Staten Island and Pennsylvania. We even send potting soil to people as far away as Iowa."

Highlighted by its unusual assortment of trees, shrubs and plants (specializing in perennials) and landscaping service, Ambleside is also known for its unique international crafts shop and, as the holidays approach, its Christmas Shop. Here, Mrs. Scudder has an opportunity to put her creativity to work indoors with the crafts, as well as outdoors with the garden.

"I enjoy hunting for crafts and folk art," she says. "We had the Christmas Shop and crafts the first year we were open. It's particularly nice because it balances the seasons. It gives us something colorful and interesting for the winter."

Busy Time of Year. In fact, she points out, "The beginning of November to just before Christmas, along with mid-April to May 20, are the busiest times" at Ambleside. People delight in the Christmas Shop with its splendid array of trees (each decorated with a different theme), ornaments, decorations, toys and crafts. The shop is already set up, with seven of the planned 11 trees decorated, and a variety of holiday items on display. It will open officially November 20.

Autumn has its own specialties, of course, with dried flowers and wreaths especially popular. Ambleside has an abundance of these, and many wreaths are made to order.

"We have fresh flower arrangements, too, for Thanksgiving, as well as Christmas," reports Mrs. Scudder, "and we do a lot of fall wreaths decorated with baby corn. Also, baby corn decorations are appropriate both for inside or outside to hang on the door. Another attractive fall decoration is an old-fashioned tobacco drying tray with a variety of dried grasses and dried flowers inside."

Bulbs and Grasses. "Of course, mums and all the bulbs are popular in the fall," she continues. "We emphasize things for their color. Also, grasses, including zebra and fountain grass, have become popular for use in perennial gardens. When the leaves and flowers are gone, the grass is nice to look at in the winter. We also sell all kinds of trees and have hardy evergreen ferns, including tassel fern, Korean rock fern and East India holly fern. These can be planted now."

Always popular are the indoor plants, such as ficus, bamboo palms and dracaena. Available now are humbo amaryllis bulbs, which are much larger than the ones available in kits. These have two stalks, each with five flowers, and are $7.99 each. Paper white bulbs are also in stock, selling at five for $2.99.

"We have pottery year round," says Mrs. Scudder, "with all kinds available, including garden statuary. Some pieces, which are cement, can stay outside in the winter."

"Baskets are one of our biggest sellers," she adds. "They're in demand all year, and we have a big collection from all over the world, with some especially nice ones from the Philippines. We have a real variety — all kinds and sizes, from elegant to casual, selling from $1.99 up to $80."

Wind chimes are another very popular item, and Ambleside carries some very special models. There are tuned chimes in the $59 and up range, untuned bronze chimes for $30 and up, and — the ultimate gardening gift — ancient bamboo wind chimes from Indonesia "said to be effective in frightening gophers" for $24.99. Bells are also available from $7 to $48.

The birds do very well at Ambleside, too. Bird baths, feeders, houses and seed, as well as "natural plants that birds love, including bayberry, holly and fire thorn," are all on hand. Two intriguing styles of cement bird baths, one in the shape of a cat and another, a floppy-eared rabbit, have been reduced to $60. A pottery cat-shaped bird feeder is $36. Of course, there are the more traditional styles of bird baths, houses and feeders also.

Eskimo Carvings. Ambleside has a fine selection of Eskimo sculpture, a special favorite of Mrs. Scudder. "We have a whole new batch of Eskimo carvings," she says, "from $20 to several hundred dollars. There are a lot in the $30 to $100 range." These soapstone carvings, depicting Arctic men and animals, come in all shapes and sizes.

Among other crafts and gift items, there is a handsome pottery stove from Mexico, to be used decoratively, for $65, and, new this year, brown paper streamers and bows from Georgia, suitable for fall decorations on mantels and bannisters, for example, or for use on Christmas trees. Two streamers, each eight feet long, cost $15, and small bows are $5.

Another very popular gift has been the Cat's Meow collectible flat wooden houses. "These are handmade," comments Mrs. Scudder, "and each year, the artisan chooses a town or city and models the houses after it. They are only available that one year. This year it's Savannah. Accompanying the houses are miniature lamp posts, fences and horses and carriages. The houses are $7.99 each, two for $14."

Nutcrackers and music boxes from Germany are also offered at Ambleside. A variety of sizes and types of these impressive nutcrackers range in price from $21 to $90. Children and adults alike will be fascinated by a music box disguised as a fisherman in a boat. As the music plays, the fisherman smokes incense and the boat rocks. It goes for $75. Other music boxes have figures perched atop them which turn about as the tune begins.

Unusual Gifts. Danish paper cut-outs to hang in the window make delightful gifts. A selection of these lovely decorations is available, including a greenhouse and a little boy fishing. They sell for $9.99 and $10.99.

Once again, Ambleside has a display of the famous Santon pottery figures. Characters from various villages in France, they come in an assortment of figures and two sizes. The two-inch size is $12 and the larger ones, $50.

Good things come in small packages, according to the old saying, and there are charming miniature porcelain houses from England, perfect to add to the village around a train set. Colorful wooden boxes from El Salvador sell for $4.99, and small pottery "pineapple surprises" open up to reveal a tiny village inside. Also made by local artisans in El Salvador, they are $4.99.

Mrs. Scudder adds that Ambleside has "Advent candles in the appropriate colors this year, and also Advent rings. The tapered candles are $4.99 for four and $8.99 for the fat candles."

Toys Everywhere. Toys are everywhere and are available all year at Ambleside. Of course, with the holidays coming, they take on added meaning. There are wonderfully real looking furry raccoons, bears, and even ostriches, which are actually hand puppets. A delightful monkey toy spins around and around, a wooden train whistle sounds just like the real thing, and a variety of Swedish gnomes are situated at different points around the shop, some climbing ladders, some peeking out from behind branches.

Christmas trees will be available the weekend after Thanksgiving, says Mrs. Scudder, and balled and burlap trees can be chosen now.

Whether you are looking for autumn decorations, such as a dried wreath or centerpiece, or an indoor plant, or whether you're planning to get an early start on some Christmas shopping, you will find an abundance of choices at Ambleside.

Hours for Ambleside are 10-6 Monday to Friday, 9-5 Saturday and 1-5 on Sunday. There will be expanded Sunday hours and some evening hours after Thanksgiving.

Tiger Football Team Hoping to End 20 Years of Frustration With Victory This Saturday over 2-6 Yale Team in the Bowl

Funny how Princeton football history has a way of repeating itself in the space of just 12 months. With two games remaining on the schedule, it's make or break time for the Tigers; no more time for "ands", "ifs" or "buts."

Last fall, under Ron Rogerson's leadership, the Orange and Black shrugged off disappointing losses to Penn and William & Mary, and defeated Yale and Cornell to turn a 3-5 season into a highly worthwhile 5-5, and a 5-2 Ivy finish. It's time to do it again.

It should be easier for Rogerson's team to overcome the Penn defeat two weeks ago, and a 32-14 loss to William & Mary last Saturday that was more expected than disappointing. As we said last year, stick that one in the "L" column and forget it; the 8-1 Tribe was way out of Princeton's league.

Rogerson can't pull the 2-6 Tigers up to the .500 mark again, but victories against Yale this Saturday (1 p.m. kickoff) in New Haven, and Dartmouth the following weekend in Palmer Stadium, will certainly lift this campaign out of the doldrums. A pair of wins will give Old Nassau a second consecutive Big Three championship, and another winning (4-3) league mark. That could lift them as high as a tie for third place.

Once again, this Princeton squad is not being asked to move mountains to finish 4-6. Yale and Dartmouth are two very ordinary football teams, with very ordinary talent that have produced just two wins so far — in some respects, Xerox copies of the '86 Tigers.

Not surprisingly, then, these contests will be won on emotion. Princeton displayed plenty in its 14-3 win over Harvard and more in a tough loss to Penn the following weekend. William & Mary was a week off.

Now it's back to the nitty gritty world of Ivy football, where very little is certain until the final whistle, where the slightest emotional edge can produce a winner between two evenly matched teams.

Rogerson turned the trick last season; can he do it again?

Tollet Bowl for Tigers. The storied Yale Bowl has been something else for the Princeton football team the last 20 years. The Tigers have saved some of their worst football for New Haven.

The very worst came two years ago, when Frank Navarro's last team held a 24-20 lead over the Elis, and was driving for an insurance touchdown inside the 10-yard line with less than two minutes to go. It never came, and the Bulldogs marched 80 yards in the final minute and pulled out a 27-24 victory with five seconds remaining.

That was the ninth straight loss in the Bowl to good, bad and indifferent Yale teams. Many Tiger football fans remember the names of Walt Kuzumbo and Larry Stupski. Kuzumbo blocked a Yale punt in the fourth quarter, and Stupski picked the ball up and ran for the winning touchdown in a 13-7 victory. That was 1966, and it's been a long drive back from New Haven ever since.

Part of the reason for the Elis' success has been the coaching of Carm Cozza. The dean of Ivy coaches, Cozza has become the most successful coach in Yale history in his 21 years there. He survived a 1-9 season in 1983, and rebounded to finish 6-3 in '84. Since then, however, a bit of frustration has set in.

A 3-1 start last year produced only a 4-4-1 mark at the end, saved by an upset of Harvard. But that team had been picked to challenge Penn for the title.

This fall, the Bulldogs lost their first three, but gave Army a good battle in defeat. Victories followed against Colgate and Columbia, and after a loss to league-leading Penn, they were favored by 15 points to beat winless Dartmouth in the Bowl.

No TV for Penn-Cornell
Alas, because of contracts drawn up last May, the Ivy League and Public Broadcasting Service will not be able to showcase the biggest game in years on the final Saturday of the season, November 22.

While Penn and Cornell are deciding the league title in Ithaca, PBS will be featuring the Harvard-Yale game in Cambridge. If all goes as expected this weekend, the Quakers and Big Red will enter the showdown both undefeated in league play. Meanwhile, the match-up between Harvard and Yale may have two entries no better than 2-7.

No switch is possible now. When the decisions were made seven months ago, sponsors paying for the telecasts wanted The Game on the schedule above all else. The Ivy presidents, at Dartmouth's insistence, added their own requirement that each team must appear twice during the season. If Harvard-Yale is not televised, the Elis would only appear once.

Pardon us for saying it, but this year at least The Game will be in Ithaca, N.Y.

The Bulldogs, who rarely used to lose games like this one, did so in embarrassing fashion, absorbing a 39-13 thumping by the Big Green. Remember, this was the same Dartmouth team that had been kicked around 42-26 on its own field by hapless Harvard the week before. It was another good example of emotion making the difference.

Yale's offense did not recover last Saturday either, and was shut out at Ithaca, 15-0, by Cornell. Quarterback Kelly Ryan has blown hot and cold this season. He has passed for more than 1,300 yards so far, but Yale has scored only 19 points in its last three contests.

His favorite receiver is Dean Athanasia, who already has more receptions than his team-leading 31 of a year ago. Sophomore tailback Kevin Brice has rushed for close to 500 yards, averaging more than five per carry.

Statistics, however, really mean very little when it comes to a Princeton-Yale match-up. This game could well be won in the practice sessions, team meetings this week, and in the locker room before the opening kickoff.

W&M Series Has Ended, And Tigers Don't Mind

We all know Ron Rogerson is glad he doesn't have to play Northwestern next year, and be certainly won't miss William & Mary either.

Last fall the Tribe had a hot-shot senior quarterback in Stan Yagiello, who led it to victory in Palmer Stadium. He graduated, but along came Ken Lambiotte, a senior transfer from Virginia, to pick up where Yagiello left off.

Ever wonder why football teams each have 11 players on the field instead of some other number? ... In the early days, teams used 15 or 20 players at a time, but for a key game between Harvard and McGill University in 1874 when many new rules were being tried out, some members of McGill's team became ill and McGill was able to field only 11 players ... That game was played with 11 on each side ... Everyone liked the change, and 11 was adopted as the new rule for football — but had those McGill players not become sick that day, football might well be played with 15 or 20 men on a side today.

Hard to believe: ... As successful as Alabama has been in football over the years, Alabama has NEVER in history had a player who won the Heisman Trophy ... That's hard to believe, but it's true.

What are the most points ever scored by one player in any National Football League game in history? ... The record was set by Ernie Nevers when he ran for 6 touchdowns and kicked 4 extra points in one game to score 40 points on Nov. 28, 1929 — a record that's never been equaled by any other player in the NFL, before or since.

Princeton's defense had no better luck stopping Lambiotte, who completed 18 of 25 passes for 250 yards and two touchdowns, enroute to a 32-14 triumph. And back to bedevil the Tiger defense again was the pint-size (5'5") Michael Clemons, who gained 80 yards in 16 carries and another 49 on four receptions.

Lambiotte connected with Harry Mehre for a 47-yard touchdown pass the first time the Tribe had the ball, and Clemons scored from five yards out the next time. It was 15-0, before the Tigers got started.

Had they scored on a long drive early in the second quarter, the Tigers would have had a shot at staying close, but they failed from inside the 10, when Gary Weisglass did not connect with tight end Mike Behrman on fourth and goal from the four. The home team then added a field goal, to move out to an 18-0 advantage.

To its credit, the Orange and Black did come back and close the gap to 18-7 before halftime. Catches by Behrman and split end Jeff Baker helped move the Tigers into position, and fullback Dave Farina went over from the two.

But W&M locked this one up in the third with two more touchdowns, and it was 32-7, before Princeton got another one of those "we never give up scores" in the fourth. Jerry Santillo tallied on a three-yard run.

In his first full game, Weisglass gained more valuable experience, and compiled some decent stats, completing 12 of 23 for 142 yards and only one interception, Princeton's only turnover of the contest.

With the outcome pretty much a foregone conclusion, the idea in this game was for the Tigers not to embarrass themselves, and stay healthy, while working to improve their overall performance.

All things considered, it worked well enough; now the serious business lies ahead.

FULTON FREEWHEELING: Hun halfback Stowell Fulton leaps over a prostrate teammate en route for a nice gain in second-period action during Saturday's finale against visiting Admiral Farragut. Fulton had a memorable performance. He rushed for 205 yards in 12 carries, including TD runs of 45 and 65 yards to lead Hun to a 21-0 victory.

Hun Rips Farragut, 21-0 In Football Finale Here

It is a practice of Hun football coach Bill Quirk to ask each of his players how he feels before the start of every game. When he reached halfback Stowell Fulton, before the start of Saturday's finale with visiting Admiral Farragut, the junior transfer from Atlantic City told Quirk, "I'm going to give you 200 percent today."

"That's a good," replied Quirk. "I'm going to give you the ball." "He didn't let us down," said Quirk after the game.

Fulton ran for 205 yards in 12 carries, including touchdown runs of 45 and 65 yards in the mud and fog, to lead Hun to a 21-0 victory. Early in the game, Fulton had a 60-yard TD run nullified by a penalty.

"He has nice movement, nice quickness," commented Quirk of Fulton. "He runs fluently. He looks like he enjoys running."

A seven-yard pass from quarterback Joe Doktorski to end Dan Hinkle completed the scoring for Hun, which also received 48 yards in rushing from senior fullback Jeff Forman.

The Raider defense did its job by limiting Farragut to 50 yards rushing.

curred Quirk. "We controlled the whole game. I had no trouble getting them (the players) up. I'm sure they'll remember it."

If, as they say, one remembers the last game the longest, then Quirk will have good memories of the season just ended. At 4-5, it was his best record in his four years as head coach.

"I feel good about it," commented Quirk. "I don't feel the season has been a disappointment at all."

"Four-and-five is the best year around the school in the last couple of years. I don't think the kids are embarrassed in any way. Anyone who played us knew they were in for a game."

some pretty big players there this year."

Quirk and his assistants have already started plugging some names, he said, into next year's backfield. Fulton will be joined at halfback by Steve Worthy, who transferred this year from Trenton High as a sophomore. Jim Cahill will replace Forman at fullback and John Summers, a junior transfer from Texas, will take over for Doktorski at quarterback.

PHS Runners Are First In Sectional Track Meet

In the annual NJSIAA Central Jersey Sectional Meet held Saturday at Holmdel, the Princeton High School cross country team, winners of the Mercer County meet the previous week, won the Group 3 team title.

The Little Tigers compiled 67 team points to dethrone defending Group 3 champion North Hunterdon. PHS had lost to the Lions last year, 44-49.

The PHS girls team, which also won the County title last week, came in fourth in the team standings with 135 points. As expected, North Hunterdon, the defending champion, outpaced all the opposition, taking the team title with 16 points. Raritan was a distant second (68) and Red Bank Catholic was third.

The top five teams and the top ten individual runners will advance to the all-states competition.

The PHS boys were again led by the Nyhan twins. Sean finished second in Group 3 competition with a time of 17:00.5. Brother John was seventh in 17:40.3. Princeton's John Clark also advanced to the team and individual competition by finishing 10th in 17:45. Rian Bogle of PHS came in 22nd in 18:21, and Andrew Fernandez finished 26th in 18:29.

The fastest Group 3 runner was Hillsborough's Bruce Barrios who was timed in 16:56.2.

Among the PHS girls, Sandra Tiger had the best time, a 21:44 to finish 13th. Karin Swartz was 17th in 22:04, and Adele Riddle, 30th, in 23:21. Courtney Kingston and Laura Farmanfarman came in 37th and 38th for the Little Tigers.

North Hunterdon's Jodi Bilotta defended her Group 3 title by coming in first in 18:55. North Hunterdon runners finished 1-2-3-4-6 in the competition.

In the Group 4 competition, Trenton High's Tim Blake retained his individual title with a time of 16:08. He defeated second-place Dave Lee of East Brunswick by three seconds. The Group 4 team title was won by Hightstown, which was 14-1 this year in regular-season competition, the Rams' lone setback coming opposite PHS. The Hopewell Valley boys team finished second in the Group 2 team competition.

Little Tigers Are 1 for 3 In Completed Net Games

The Princeton High School girls' tennis team made up three matches last week, winning only one, to run its record to 14-7.

On Monday, it completed both doubles matches in a suspended game with Hopewell Valley. The number one doubles lost, 5-7, 5-7, but the number two of Susan Davidson and Kimya Farmanfarman came on after losing the first set, 4-6, to win the next two, 6-4, 6-3. Since PHS had already won two of the three single matches with the Bulldogs it won the match, 3-2.

PHS coach Bill Humes singled out Davidson for her play this season, as the team's "most outstanding and consistent player all year. If there is such a thing as a most valuable player then she would be it." Davidson is a senior.

In the league standings in the Valley Division, West Windsor has lost three games while PHS has lost four. Unless the Pirates lose their final league contest — considered unlikely in Humes' view — he says he sees no reason to play a second makeup contest with Hopewell because the outcome would have no bearing on the league championship.

Yam Finishes Second

Princeton Day's Amy Yam is only a ninth grader, but she has already proved herself a top cross country runner in her first year of varsity competition.

Yam finished second in the girls' NJISAA cross country championship last Thursday, covering the 2.9-mile course at Blair Academy in 18:58. The PDS girls finished fourth overall, behind Pingry, Oak Knoll and Hutgers Prep.

Another PDS underclassman, sophomore John Mayer claimed seventh place with a time of 16:05 in the boys' race over the same route. The Panther boys finished third, behind Morristown-Beard and Neumann Prep.

In games last week, PHS suffered a 4-1 defeat at the hands of Notre Dame and lost, 3-2, to West Windsor.

Against the 17-5 Irish, the lone winner for the Little Tigers was Michelle Firestone, who won the third singles with a 6-1, 6-3 victory over Cheryl Paglione. Both doubles matches went three sets.

PHS also lost to West Windsor for the second time as it was able to capture only the second singles and second doubles.

Freshman Karen Castellano won a hard-fought match over Karen Vestergaard, 2-6, 7-5, 7-6, while Davidson and Farmanfarman won two tiebreakers over Linda Sun and Robin Seipzman, 7-6 (7-5) and 7-6 (7-0).

In other singles matches, Sara Pickens of PHS lost 6-2, 6-2, and Firestone defaulted when the second set was tied at 3-3. She had lost the first set, 2-6. Princeton's first doubles of Barbara Goida and Elizabeth Ignat went down, 5-7, 4-6.

Season Ends Quietly For PHS Soccer Team

Its final game with Steinert postponed twice because of the weather, the Princeton High boys' soccer team finally ended its long season Monday under first-year coach Ron Celestin.

The Little Tigers went quietly, mustering only two shots on goal in bowing, 4-0, to the Spartans.

The Little Tigers ended with a 2-11-2 record. Nine of the losses were shutouts. Their only victories were a 2-1 upset of West Windsor the third game into the season and a 2-1 overtime victory over Trenton High.

For Celestin, perhaps the best player ever to play the sport for PHS, it was a disappointing season. He never was able to find an answer to the Little Tigers' lack of scoring.

"We'll miss the seniors who will graduate," said Celestin. As for next year, "It's hard to say," he replied.

"I thought we had the players this year so I don't want to predict anything."

Among the senior starters who played their last game are captain Justin Harding, goalie Dave Gross, Dan Shidlovsky and John Stefanchik.

Princeton Youth Sports Wins in Midget Football

Princeton Youth Sports defeated United Jersey Bank,

6-0, in overtime last week to win the Princeton Midget Football League title for the second consecutive year.

After the two teams had battled to a scoreless tie in regulation time, Jason Kirby connected on an eight-yard TD pass to Brendon Brannoo for the game-winning play. PYS finished with a 2-1-2 record, while the Bank ended 1-2-2.

Offensive standouts for PYS in the final game were Marquis Johnson, Jason Miller, Steven George, Muleba Kosagga and John Vaughn. Defensive stars for the champions included James Charlesworth, Alex Vielbig, Bob Bernhard, Jamie Bernhard, Brian Williams, Keith Esposito and Mike Cucchi.

The offense for the Bank was led by Ed McEwen, Dan Wilson, Angus Guberman, Ricki Vernon, Rich Ryan and Nick Sierra.

Excelling on defense for the losers were Chris Healey, Jason Battle, Marquese Bullock, Adam Bastmet, Kate Kossagga, Justin Henderson, Eric McEwen and Dan Noon.

Tiger Hockey Hopes to Prove Forecast Of Another Ninth-Place Finish Wrong

If the Princeton men's hockey team is going to gain any long-lasting respect, it has got to stop being pegged as a ninth-place team by opposing coaches, and then proving them correct.

Two years ago the Tigers finished eighth and claimed the last spot in the ECAC Division I playoffs for the first time in more than a decade. Last fall, despite a talented group of players headed by returning all-American defenseman Cliff Abrecht, a pre-season poll of coaches predicted the Orange and Black couldn't do it again and would finish ninth. The forecast was right on the money.

John Messuri

What a Freshman Season!

The poll for this season has just been released and guess where the Tigers are picked to finish? The coaches have Princeton pegged in the ninth slot once more, above Dartmouth, Brown and Army. Harvard and Cornell lead the 12-team league.

Coach Jim Higgins would love to prove them wrong, and win back a playoff spot, where as he says, "anything can happen. We feel we can make the playoffs," Higgins says. "That's what we're shooting for."

Incidentally, the shooting starts this Friday and Saturday nights, when Princeton travels to Colgate and Cornell. The home openers come the following Friday and Saturday at 7:30 in Baker Rink against Harvard and Dartmouth.

Many people might wonder how this feat will be accomplished. After all, if the Tigers couldn't do it with a 40-45 minutes per game player of Abrecht's ability, how will they do it without him? In addition to being solid on defense, Abrecht set several scoring marks, and piled up 41 points last year, the most by a player here in 24 years.

However, while Higgins does not have one top quality player, he does have his strongest senior class in several seasons. Six four-year players are expected to contribute heavily to the team, plus two senior goal-tenders, Dave Marotta and Dave Shea. Marotta had more playing time last season, but Shea is giving him a challenge for the starting berth.

Behind the seniors come five juniors, who produced 34 points, and a sophomore class headed by John Messuri, who was voted both the Ivy and ECAC Rookie of the Year. Always around the opposing net last winter, Messuri tied Abrecht for the team lead in scoring.

The word is out that Higgins' recruiting efforts last spring paid off handsomely with a hot-shot group of skaters, but he is quick to point out that you can't rely on them right away. "There is a period of adjustment in Division I hockey for any player coming out of either high schools here or Canadian programs," Higgins says. "We think they have a lot of potential, but it may be a couple of months before they help us."

At the moment several freshmen are plugged in to various lines with returning players. First-year man Todd Dow, an Ontario recruit, will play right wing on a line centered by Messuri, while junior Len Quesnelle will skate on the right.

Quesnelle, who has been moved up from defense, has been playing well, and tallied twice in a scrimmage with R.I.T. He's one of the reasons Higgins feels the team will be more of an offensive threat this fall. Princeton held its opponents to 3.7 goals per game last winter, but could not match that itself, coming in at 3.6

Senior John Rocco will start the season with a cast on one wrist, but he'll be centering a line that includes senior Bill Brady on right wing and junior Dave Umland on the left.

Another line will feature junior Kelly Szautner, who has had a good pre-season, skating between a pair of freshmen from Massachusetts, Bart Blaaser and Greg Polaski. Senior Joe Ross will anchor a fourth line that will include two of the following three freshmen: Kevin Sullivan, Chris Hughes or Dan Palmer.

Two seniors, Jamie MacPherson, who has high marks from Higgins so far, and Scott Howe, will anchor the defense, with juniors John Allen and Steve Purvis also seeing plenty of action. Freshmen vying for ice time include Chris Tatum, Chris DeFazio and Nate Smith.

Sidelined for the moment is senior right winger Tim Driscoll, who injured a knee and has missed three weeks. He may be ready to go by this weekend.

Anybody who has followed the team's fortunes over the past seasons knows what these players have to do. The opposition is the toughest faced by Tiger teams in any sport, but if it is to have a legitimate shot at the playoffs, Princeton must learn to achieve some degree of consistency and win more on the road.

Last year, the Orange and Black opened with a bang, beating Cornell, 4-2, in Baker, but the following night the score was reversed against a Colgate team that barely managed to beat out the Tigers for the eighth and final playoff slot.

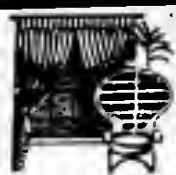

Things like that have to change if Higgins' skaters are going to climb out of ninth place.

No More Mountains Left to Climb for PDS Field Hockey

WE DID IT IN THE DARK! Shana Fineburg, Anne McDougald and Robin Cook celebrate after Princeton Day's 1-0 overtime victory over Montclair-Kimberley.

The last step up the mountain proved to be the toughest for the Princeton Day field hockey team last Thursday, but the Panthers reached down for something extra and made it to the top.

At stake was the NJISAA "A" title, which PDS wanted desperately to win for the third consecutive year. After taking the Mercer County title for the first time ever this season, anything less was unacceptable, but the unacceptable came within only four minutes or so of becoming reality.

The sun had long since set and a new moon was shining brightly from above, when the Panthers finally broke through a tough Montclair-Kimberley defense to score the game's only goal with less than half the time remaining in a 10-minute overtime. Two had been agreed upon beforehand, but this was pared to one, because of darkness. (A late-arriving official had caused the contest to start 30 minutes late).

There was to be no shootout, either, so a tie would have left both schools as co-champions. That might have satisfied the underdog MKA girls, who lost 1-0 in the finals last year, but PDS could never have swallowed the co-champion label.

Montclair Defense Holds. Through two halves of play and a good chunk of the extra session, however, all Princeton Day's efforts came up short on a somewhat soggy Pingry field. Playing a strong first half, coach Cheryl Silva's girls had several chances, but a stout Montclair defense, led by goalie Lisa Bartlett, who made a couple of outstanding saves, held firm.

The 0-0 score at halftime apparently unnerved the Panthers, according to Silva. "We played our best hockey in the first half," she commented. "When that wasn't working, it put us on edge. In the second half we were just hitting and hoping; smacking the ball downfield and hoping it would find somebody."

Often the ball did find somebody, and PDS had its chances in the second half, also, but could not put consistent pressure on the goal. It out-shot MKA 11-1, but PDS had trouble following up one shot with another.

The Blue and White failed to take advantage of a wide margin in corners, wasting seven in the first half and another 10 in the second. MKA was on defense most of the final minutes in regulation time.

To the Panthers' credit, however, they never quit running to every ball, and constantly advancing it toward the MKA goal. In overtime, the only question was whether PDS would lose out to the clock. The ball never got out of the MKA end of the field.

Three more corners failed to produce a score, but suddenly there was a shot across the goal mouth. The ball deflected off Betsy Jaffee's stick, high into the air, and fell behind the goal, by the far corner.

And fittingly, there was Becca Royal there to smack it the remaining one foot across the goal line and into the cage. There were fewer PDS students and fans in attendance than at the county finals, but they did a rousing encore of the celebration scene.

The victory was the 15th for PDS against just one loss and two ties, and it gave the school its seventh prep title in nine years. But, what now for Silva, who now has made her team the best of both prep and public high schools.

"It's been very exciting this year with this team," she said. "I must say that this was one of my goals, but I'm already looking forward to next season."

"We lose 10 seniors, so it will be a rebuilding year, but we have such a good feeder system that it will be good, I'm sure."

It sure should be. Last fall, PDS lost 11 seniors, and came out this season and won both the prep and county titles. This was supposed to be another rebuilding year, too.

—Jeb Stuart

While PDS Took Prep A, Stuart Claimed B Title

Another Princeton field hockey team had reason to celebrate last Thursday besides Princeton Day. Its neighbor down The Great Road, Stuart Country Day, captured the Prep "B" Title for the first time ever.

Coach Missy Bruvik's team wrestled the crown away from defending champion Newark Academy in a 1-0 triumph. The only goal of the game came off the stick of Katy Duffy, while goalie Laura Taber made five saves to hold Newark scoreless.

Stuart, which finished 5-5-3 on the season, advanced to the finals with a 2-1 triumph over Morristown-Beard. Helen Payne and Michele Davidson scored in that contest. Stuart only lost to PDS by one goal, 2-1, during the regular season.

KIM HAS THE POSITION BUT NOT THE BALL: Princeton High Junior Jenny Kim has point-blank position in front of West Windsor goalie Erin Parkin but the ball is behind her. Little Tigers finally overcame a scoreless string for a 1-0 victory Friday to advance in the state tournament competition.

Scoring Drought Ends; PHS Eliminates Pirates

It was, allowed Princeton High field hockey coach Joyce Jones, the sweetest sound in all the world.

It was the sound of the ball hitting the backboard of the West Windsor goal. In edging the Pirates, 1-0, Friday, the Little Tigers ended 120 minutes of scoreless frustration and advanced to the second round in the state tournament competition.

Third-seeded PHS was scheduled to play second-seeded Voorhees this week. If successful, the Little Tigers, would probably then have to face top-seeded North Hunterdon in the next round.

For a moment last week it looked as if PHS was destined to replay its previous meeting with West Windsor four days earlier, when the Little Tigers dominated the play but were unable to score.

Seven minutes after a scoreless first half in Friday's first-round tournament game, Liz Hewson took a corner from Susan Elliott and rifled a shot past WW goalie Erin Parkin, who didn't have a chance on the play.

The Little Tigers outshot WW, 15-2.

"In the commercial they spell relief R-O-L-A-I-D-S. For us it was G-O-A-L," smiled a relieved Jones.

Veterans Jessica Fraker and Aileen Causing were both coiled tight in the opening minutes, as the Little Tigers continued to press the attack but were unable to score — so tight, that Jones was forced to call a time out and tell them, "Take your anger and frustration and make it work for you."

Jones cited right back Jen Causing for playing one of her best games of the season.

When asked why the Little Tigers have been unable to score, Jones admitted it was frustrating. "If I knew the answer, I'd do it. But there is no answer. Sometimes we react and don't create on a loose ball," Jones offered. "There is a lot of split-second decision making involved."

"Statistically, if you look at our last three games, we dominated in all phases ... corners ... hits ... shots ... but we're walking off the field tied instead of winners."

As another example, Jones cited Princeton's 1-0 loss to Lawrence the previous day. The Cardinals, she said, got off only one good shot, but it was enough to win the game. The only goal by the Cardinal's Shannon Carroll was her 12th of the season.

The Cardinals also got some outstanding goal tending from Sarah Lamont, who turned aside 14 PHS shots. PHS goalie Christine Sullo had seven saves.

The loss, Princeton's fifth, was costly, as the victory clinched the Valley Division title for Lawrence over Princeton.

Or did it? The scoreless tie against West Windsor early last week, which was halted after the first overtime because of darkness, has created a Catch 22 controversy. Jones said she agreed to stopping play under the assumption the tie would be played off later on. "I'll be very disappointed if it isn't," she said.

The CVC league rules are contradictory. One states no ties can be played out later if a game is called because of darkness or poor weather conditions. Another rule, however, states that no ties are allowed in the conference.

PHS athletic director Carol Parsons announced that there will be a meeting of the league's athletic directors this Wednesday in an attempt to resolve the impasse.

Should the tie be played off and PHS win, it would share the Valley Division title with Lawrence. A similar tie situation involves Hightstown and Notre Dame in the Colonial Division.

Jubilant Princeton High Makes Steinert Sixth Victim

"Six-and-one! Six-and-one! Six-and-one!" shouted the jubilant Princeton High football players Saturday, after they had made Steinert their sixth victim in this year's Cinderella campaign.

Combining an effective blend of offensive and defensive plays, the Little Tigers defeated Steinert 28-20 — their sixth win in seven games.

In winning, PHS continued to surprise the "experts" who have been picking the Blue and White to lose every week, and thus set the stage for a showdown battle on Saturday with West Windsor. At stake is the Valley Division crown of the Colonial Valley Conference, and a possible berth in the Group 3 state competition.

The game will start at 1:30 at the West Windsor field. The Pirates blanked McCorristin, 17-0, in their last outing to increase their record to 5-2. They are a game behind PHS in the league standings.

A win would give PHS its first Valley Division title, a crown it once shared with Notre Dame but has never won outright.

If PHS gets past West Windsor, it will have done everything it can to get into state championship consideration, commented Kurt Vollherbst, the Little Tiger coach.

"West Windsor is a good football team. But we feel very good that we've got some people who can go ahead and beat West Windsor," added Vollherbst. "The big thing is to work hard, prepare for the game and be mentally ready."

"They have a great passing game, a sophomore quarterback (Darren Johnson) who throws well," said Vollherbst of the Pirates. "They run well and they play great defense."

For its part, PHS, the Rodney Dangerfield of the CVC, has a number of potent weapons of its own. Saturday's game will be its biggest on the gridiron in the last five years.

The Pirates have experience on their side, having won the Valley Conference title the last three years in a row. Viewed from either side, it is a crucial, "must" game.

"Keep It Going. "You came back again in the second half with a great effort to put it away. A super job. Keep it going," Vollherbst told his assembled team at the end of the Steinert contest.

As the Spartans drove toward the goal in the final period, to eventually cut Princeton's lead to 21-20, a PHS follower on the sideline remarked, "They are making this one exciting game."

It was that. "We were up and down all game," agreed Vollherbst. "We had our spurts and they had their spurts. We had great defensive play. The offense played well. We were able to score points and the defense gave us great field position."

RIDDICK OVER THE TOP FOR SIX: Mike Riddick, who usually runs through opposing tacklers, this time leaps over a bunched Steinert line to score go-ahead touchdown in third-period in Saturday's 28-20 victory over the Spartans. It was his seventh TD of the season.

The outcome was sealed when Princeton forced a Steinert turnover with 1:42 left to play. Steinert quarterback Scott Young had connected with a pass to end Paul Buck, but before Buck could control the ball, he was hit hard by Mike Riddick. The ball bounded loose and was picked off in mid-air by the quick hands of junior linebacker Balfour Merrill.

Taking over on its 17, PHS advanced to the one on three carries by Mike Riddick. With eight seconds left, after PHS had called time out, a decision Vollherbst said later that he regretted, Pat McKeller vaulted into the end zone. John Lyons kicked his fourth extra point to make it a 28-20 final. "I screwed it up; I should have let the clock run out, but I wanted to let our kids score," explained Vollherbst.

The game was played in a light drizzle and fog; there were few turnovers, considering the sloppy field conditions. The game featured a meeting between the two top rushers in the county: Steinert's speedster, Garth Coccia and Princeton's hard-running Mike Riddick. Garcia entered the game with 584 yards on 124 carries for a 4.4 average; Riddick had gained 474 yards on 113 carries for a 4.2 average.

When the game ended, Riddick had rushed for 76 yards in 22 carries and had scored Princeton's third TD to increase his total to seven. Denied the outside by the PHS defense, Coccia was held to 59 yards in 18 carries. He scored two of the Spartans' three touchdowns, his third and fourth of the season.

One of the scenes following the game was Coccia warmly shaking Riddick's hand and saying, "Nice game, Mike."

Fisher Up the Middle. Neither team threatened until 1:30 left in the opening period when McKellar picked off a Young pass and returned the ball to the Spartan 28. On the next play, Paul Fisher bolted up the middle and went over untouched on a play described by assistant coach Doug Snyder as an "open back trap." Steinert, said Snyder, had been looking for an option.

Steinert responded by driving 67 yards in 15 plays, all on the ground, consistently attacking the middle of the PHS defensive line. Coccia got the last four, but the visitors trailed, 7-6, when an attempted run for a two-point conversion failed.

PHS got off to a bad start in the second half, when Chris Ruyak intercepted a Tim Rumer pass in Princeton's first series (it was Steinert's lone interception) and Steinert took over on the PHS 38. The visitors scored in four plays to take a 12-7 lead. The last 21 yards came on a nice fake into the line by Young, who then circled around end to go unmolested into the end zone. Young's pass for the two-point conversion was batted down by Jim Lavery.

John Thompson returned the following kickoff to the 47 to set up Princeton's second score. From there Riddick took over.

First the 216-pound tailback rumbled 13 yards to the Steinert 40. Then he took a short pass from Rumer and raced down the sideline to the Steinert 14 before he was pushed out of bounds. In three more carries, Riddick had a first down on the Steinert 2. On the next play, he vaulted over the bunched Steinert defenders for the score. "What in the heck is going on?" the Steinert coaching staff demanded to know, as the defensive unit trudged toward the sideline.

The go-ahead score inspired the PHS defense — especially the hard-nosed, 185-pound Lavery — which began to swarm over the Steinert ball carriers. In one sequence, Lavery, an aggressive, crunching tackler, broke through for two sacks, was whistled for roughing the punter when he and Lyons almost blocked a punt, and intercepted a tipped pass, which he returned to the Steinert 26 to set up Princeton's third score. On the next play, PHS got all 26, when Rumer's lofted pass was grabbed by Paris between two Spartan defenders in the end zone. "Lavery did a super job," agreed Vollherbst.

Steinert, fighting for the chance to finish the season above .500, fought back again. Aided by a personal foul by PHS on an out-of-bounds play, the Spartans were temporarily halted when Coccia's fumble on the PHS seven was recovered by Paris. PHS was unable to move, however, and Paris's punt was returned by Tom Young to the PHS 40. "One more time D, one more time," implored Snyder, the PHS defensive coach.

Young passed to his brother, Tom, for a first down on the PHS 23. On the next play, he completed another short pass to Young who lateraled to the trailing Coccia who took it all the way in. For the first time, Steinert was able to complete a two-point conversion when Coccia went around end, to cut the PHS lead to 21-20 and set up the game's final dramatic moments.

"Tim threw the ball well, Fisher blocked and ran well, and Mike has some nice running plays," summed up Vollherbst.

"We have been able to pick it up when we have to. We got behind, 12-7, and we came back. I think that shows a lot of character."

Season Ends with Loss For PDS Girls' Soccer

Not this year, but maybe next for the Princeton Day girls' soccer team, which saw its hopes for a Prep "A" title this season end last Wednesday on a cold and rainy afternoon in Hightstown.

The Panthers 2-0 loss to Peddie came as no surprise; the Falcons had won two earlier meetings, shutting out the Blue and White in the last one. Goalie Christal Oliver was perfect again, saving eight PDS shots, while teammates Polly Chapin and Mary Jeanne Deery scored in the second and third periods to provide the margin of victory.

Though PDS lost each time, all three games were more even than the score would indicate. Peddie took just one more shot in this one, 16 to 15. PDS came quite close on a couple of occasions.

Despite losing out in the semi-finals for the second consecutive year, the girls improved their record to 9-6-1 from 7-5 a year ago. Coach Meg Bailey loses several seniors who made solid contributions all year, including Alix Ufford, Michele Sternberg, Lisa Lavinson, Beth Fulmer and Katie Gellenbeck, but she has a talented nucleus of players returning.

These include the team's leading scorer, Alicia Collins, Hillary Miller, Dina Johnson, Jennifer Myers, Emily Francomano and Laura Perhach.

Princeton Day Boys Soccer Defeats Pennington for Prep B Title

Well, we will never know for certain whether Pennington's Brian Parker would have made any difference on a muddy Rider College field last Saturday. But, if he had been healthy, Parker (aidelined with a broken ankle suffered in a 13-1 rout of Rutgers Prep) would have had to play the game of his life to reverse the 3-1 triumph posted by Princeton Day in the finals of the NJISAA Class B boys soccer tournament.

The Panthers, who captured the title from the Raiders for the first time since 1983, and finished 13-7, played a smart, aggressive game, controlling the tempo for almost the entire 80 minutes. A letdown for part of the third period allowed Pennington to score its only goal, and almost notch two more, but the Raiders didn't come close to scoring at any other time.

The losers were continually afflicted by an alert Blue and White defense that rarely allowed the ball inside the goal area. Fullbacks Elias Abud, Dave Ragsdale, Jeremy Rothfleisch and Brian Cribb consistently booted the ball out of danger. Cribb was everywhere, a booming kick here, a head there. And when the ball did get through to goalie Paul Goldman, he was flawless in the slippery conditions.

Not so at the other end of the field, where shaky goaltending cost Pennington dearly. With Parker out, it became the Steve Giuli show, and the senior forward gave PDS supporters plenty to cheer about.

After a scoreless first period, Giuli went to work. Midway through the second, Collins Roth took the ball down the right side and sent a crossing pass into the middle. Pennington goalie George Ward came out, but mishandled the wet ball, and Giuli was right there to kick it into an open net. Just over a minute later, Giuli's corner kick from the left side sailed past a Pennington defender on the post and curved untouched into the far corner of the SLIGHTLY SLOPPY, BUT CHAMPIONS NONETHELESS: Four quarters of play on a wet field left the Princeton Day soccer team muddy, but the 3-1 triumph they scored over Pennington made the Panthers Prep B champions for the first time in three years. goal. PDS led 2-0 at the half.

That advantage held up until the early part of the third period, when Pennington brought its fullbacks up to midfield and PDS had trouble clearing the ball beyond them. Goldman made one good save on a high kick intended for the corner, a better one on a low shot to his right, but had no chance when Warren Smith headed the ball past him on a free kick from the left corner.

PDS Regains Control. The goal seemed to wake up the Panthers, and they regained their momentum. The insurance goal they needed to wrap up the contest came with 12:12 left in the fourth. Giuli completed his hat trick when he picked up a long kick by Cribb, avoided the Pennington substitute goalie who had rushed out of the net, and calmly booted the ball in. "I saw him coming out, and I just decided to shoot because the goal should have been wide open," he said.

"The trophy is back home now."

"I knew Pennington would be the final test," commented Don Shaffer, who was all over the field at center halfback, wherever the action was. "We had a great game against Newark (in the semifinals), and that got us going for this one."

Coach Carlos Cara, who preferred to let his players do the talking to the press at the beginning, was proud of every one, citing the play of all 11.

"We said at the beginning of the year that the greatest thing we had was teamwork, and it showed today," Cara observed.

"We have struggled through some ups and downs this season with one common objective in mind, and the guys have shown a lot of class."

"For three years, we've been waiting for this; we've lost to them six times. This time we outplayed them and the score is indicative of what happened out there. Steve Giuli had one game in a million, and for Don Shaffer it was a fitting tribute to the kind of effort he has put out all season."
